Clubman Guilty in Pink Bloomer Girl's Case

CHARGE BY GIRL IS UPHELD

Brookline Clubman Will Hear Sentence Tomorrow; Judge Discusses the Case from Bench.

Charles A. Alexander of the Boston Athletic Association was found guilty, by Judge Dowd in the Municipal Court today, of an attack upon Gertrude Allen, a young chorus girl, in the course of which, she testified yesterday, he tore her pink silk bloomers.

Judge Dowd deferred imposing sentence until tomorrow.

Alexander denied the girl's charge and said he never saw the bloomers until they were presented as evidence in court, but admitted that he bought silk stockings and other garments for her.

The judge, in announcing his decision today, discussed the case at some length. He said:

"Miss Allen was an unfortunate waif, thrown upon the world without the care of mother or father, and since her grandmother's death on her own resources and forced to earn a living upon the stage.

"I am satisfied she is a pure girl, but she is not the unsophisticated person that her counsel would have us believe. Neither of the parties was, I believe, of normal mind. I do not believe Mr. Alexander lived within the proprieties that bind a married man when he went to the house where the incident occurred.

"The girl in her story on the stand

SUSPECT IN DOUBLE KILLING

Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, Noted Tennis Player and Son-in-Law of Poisoned Couple, Is Arrested

New York, March 23.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, well known tennis player, was arrested today on the order of District Attorney Swann owing to discoveries made in investigating the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., parents of the physician's wife.

Mr. Waite was arrested in his home in the fashionable Colesuem apartment on Riverside Drive by detectives who had been shadowing him since last Saturday.

The police allege that Dr. Waite hoped to share in the disposal of Mr. Peck's $1,500,000 estate.

Under the terms of the dead man's will Mrs. Waite receives half of the fortune to be held in trust until she is forty years old. She is now twenty-seven.

BODY WAS CREMATED.

Mrs. Peck died on Jan. 30, while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Waite. Her body was cremated and soon afterwards Mr. Peck, who had hastened to the home of his daughter and son-in-law, fell ill.

Cora Heller, a negro maid employed in the Waite home, told District Attorney Swann that she had seen Dr. Waite pour some liquid from a vial into his father-in-law's soup. The maid claimed that the elder man took a spoonful of the soup, but refused to have any more of it because of its disagreeable taste.

Then, the maid continued, she heard Dr. Waite say:

"Well, you must take something to brace you up. I will make you a cup of tea myself."

The tea was made, the girl said, and she again saw Dr. Waite pour liquid from the small bottle into the cup.

The first intimation that the aged couple had met their death from other than natural causes was contained in the following telegram to Percival Peck:

"Suspicions aroused. Demand autopsy. Examine body." The telegram was signed "K. Adams."

According to the police, "K. Adams" is a woman with whom Dr. Waite was on intimate terms. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the sending of the message. The woman is now missing, but the police are conducting a country-wide search for her.

Latest War Bulletins

Paris, March 23.—Two German submarines have been sunk near Gibraltar, according to information received here today. A French scout ship met a neutral collier near the Moroccan coast supplying five submarines with petrol. The British naval authorities were notified and warships were sent out. The collier was captured and two of the submarines were destroyed, but the other three got away.

London, March 23.—The French steamship Bougainville, 7,200 tons has been sunk by a German submarine. Twenty-three members of the crew were picked up and landed today. The Bougainville sailed from Havre. German submarines also sank today the British ship Sea Serpent and the Norwegian steamship Kanniko. The crew of the latter was saved.

London, March 23.—According to the Press Association two German seaplanes were shot down in last Sunday's aerial raid on the English coast.

London, March 23.—The Norwegian bark Lindfield, 2,276 tons, has been sunk off the Irish coast. Thirty members of the crew were rescued and taken to Queenstown today. The Lindfield was en route from the Pacific coast of the United States to England. It sailed from Portland, Ore., on November 7, and from Astoria on November 9.

MEXICANS RALLY TO BANDIT'S FLAG

By JOHN EDWIN NEVINS.

Washington, March 23.—All of the regular army forces in the United States have been placed at the disposal of General Frederick Funston, commanding on the Mexican border. He can call for individual units without asking the War Department for special orders. But under no circumstances will the regulars now stationed in the Panama Canal zone or in Honolulu be included in any such arrangement.

Funston can have 13,000 coast artillerymen organized as infantry when he wants them. Their organization is complete. The first to go will be from the Department of the East. But until they actually are on the way no announcement of plans will be made by the War Department.

The Mexican situation is constantly growing graver. Reports from different sources tell of desertions from the Carranzista standards and a rush to the colors of the outlaw Villa.

"ALL BULLETS FOR GRINGOES."

"All Mexican bullets should be for Americans" was the battle cry that Villa sent around the country. "Two Mexicans will not fight each other, but the cursed Gringo."

Administration officials, however, are not abandoning hope that the death or capture of Villa yet can be accomplished without general intervention.

In this connection, the situation is at least inside not worse by the abstinence of the Mexican embassy here that the Carranzista forces are still intact. The embassy formally denied today that general Luis Herrera has deserted to Villa, but officials take this denial with a "grain of salt."

They say that it will probably prove that Herrera has abandoned Carranza because of anger over the fact that he was removed from his command a month ago on a charge of drunkenness.

The State Department is making energetic effort to get a report from Consul Letcher at Chihuahua City to clear up the Herrera situation and to show just what the sentiment in that section actually is. Letcher has not

'MESSIAH' DEAD BY FIRE OF MYSTERY

Wilfred Lincourt, a former Lowell editor who fell victim to a delusion that he was the reincarnated Messiah, with a mission to deliver the world from sin, died under the assumed name of "Geoffrey Crayon" in Clinton early today, under circumstances which indicated suicide by setting himself on fire.

Lincourt disappeared from Lowell several months ago, appearing in Clinton six weeks ago "down and out." He secured work in the Lancaster mills and then in the Bigelow Carpet Company's plant and boarded at a corporation boarding house kept by John Strunz in Green street, Clinton. Since Monday he had kept to his room.

At 9 o'clock last night he burst from his room in flames. He was sent to Clinton Hospital, where he died at 12.30 a. m. Examination of his effects revealed his real name and home. His father and a brother claimed the body today.

Medical Examiner George L. Tobey and Police Chief Thomas J. O'Malley of Clinton found that the oil from "Crayon's" kerosene lamp had been poured out. There was a burned spot on the bed.

COMMITTEE TO MAKE INQUIRY ON RUTLAND

As a result of the food strike by several of the inmates of the Rutland State Sanatorium, the legislative Committee on Public Institutions will make an unofficial investigation of the institution tomorrow.

Representative Fred P. Greenwood of Everett, chairman of the committee, said:

"We shall investigate the quality of food served to the inmates. We have no legal authority to offer any recommendation on what we may find, but there is before the Legislature a resolve providing for an official investigation and if what we find warrants it we shall support that resolve upon our return."

It was said by sanitorium patients today that the quality fo food served at the institute has already shown improvement.

The board of trustees of the hospitals for consumptives, with a representative of the State Board of Charity, has made an informal investigation of the Rutland Sanatorium situation and found little or no basis for the allegations regarding the quality of food.

So far as can be learned, the board says, there has been no special complaint as to the food. Certainly no complaint has been received by the trustees or by the superintendent, according to Dr. John B. Hawes, secretary of the State Tuberculosis Commission.

"The trustees realize," said Dr. Hawes, "the great difficulty in catering in a satisfactory manner to sick people whose appetites naturally are capricious, but they believe that as a whole the food has been of high standard and subject only to certain unavoidable happenings inherent to the preparation of food in large institutions."

HEARING ON FOOD AND DRUG BILL POSTPONED

Bills for uniform legislation as to food and drugs which came up for hearing today before the Committee on Public Health at the State House were postponed at the request of Dr. Francis X. Mahoney of the Boston Board of Health till Monday.

Dr. Mahoney objects to the State Board of Health having to charge the enforcement of an act when such enforcement, he says, should be under the control of local boards of health, especially with reference to the Boston Board of Health.

Senator Clark, chairman of the committee, ruled that the conference would be held Monday at 2 p. m., and that general discussion on the three bills submitted to the committee would be taken up on Wednesday.

CUTTERS RACE TO SINKING SCHOONER

The coast guard cutters Gresham and Ossipee raced today to the rescue of the three-masted Boston schooner, Ellen Montague, which was reported in a sinking condition thirty miles east by south of Thatcher's Island.

The story was brought to Boston by the Boston-Yarmouth liner Prince George, which arrived early today. It was the Prince George which summoned the cutters by wireless, being herself unable to bring the schooner into port for lack of a towing hawser.

Captain A. W. McKinnon of the Prince George said he sighted the schooner at dawn today. Her rigging was wrecked, her steerage gear was disabled, and she was taking water.

CRITICIZE SHERMAN PLAN.

Army officers today severely criticised the resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Sherman of Illinois authorizing the President to call for 50,000 volunteers. This resolution has no support among the men who will direct the fighting.

The plans of the General Staff call for a volunteer army of 500,000 men with the national guard given first call should real intervention be made necessary and the officers who are most familiar with the general situation south of the Rio Grande say that any authorization of only 50,000 volunteers under existing circumstances will only serve to inflame the entire Mexican nation.

The general staff has complete equipment for 500,000 men ready at the various supply stations and arsenals. If any action is to be taken the staff will request Secretary of War Baker to see that the volunteer call is made effective for half a million men no matter how many actually are drafted into the service.

MOTOR SERVICE GOOD.

Secretary of War Baker today denied reports that the motor truck communications of General Pershing have broken down. On the contrary, he said, this particular branch of the service is proving better than had been anticipated. The War Department also was without advices concerning the report that Pershing would take over the Mexican Northwestern railroad.

All reports to the Navy Department today indicated that there had been little change in conditions on either the east or the West coast. Secretary of State Lansing returned to his desk today from a brief vacation, but he did not interfere with the arrangements already made by Counselor Polk. He conferred with Ambassador-Designate Arredondo this afternoon.

If possible the proposed protocol between the United States and the de facto government will be approved and made public tonight. Both at the War Department and State Department it was officially stated that so far as is known no attack on Mexico has been fired by either side on Mexican soil. The Pershing expedition, Secretary Baker said, has not been in touch with the Villistas.

ORDER WARSHIPS TO PROTECT U. S. INTERESTS ON EAST COAST

By International News Service.

Washington, March 23.—Steps have been taken by the Navy Department to safeguard American interests on the east coast of Mexico. The battleship Kentucky was ordered to proceed from Galveston to Tampico, and to remain in those waters. The gunboat Wheeling will be ordered from New Orleans to El Carmen, Yucatan.

The army transport Hancock is reported approaching Ensenada, which is stated to be the best place, in case of an emergency, for the rapid embarkation of marines.

The Kentucky's original destination was Vera Cruz, but her orders were suddenly changed, and she was directed to Tampico. Her mission is said to be twofold, to protect American citizens, as well as American and foreign property interests.

The Wheeling's presence off El Carmen is taken to mean that this government is not sure that Carranza's claims to have complete control of Yucatan are well founded. In Yucatan the greater part of the American interests are at Progreso, and it is believed the Wheeling will divide her time between this port and El Carmen.

The gunboats Marietta and Machias are now respectively at Vera Cruz and Tampico.

The activity of the Navy Department was accepted as indicating that the Administration is not convinced that quiet prevails along the east coast, or that the interests of Americans and other foreigners are entirely safe.

The Chevalier Van Rappard, The Netherlands Minister, called at the State Department and discussed with Acting Secretary Polk the situation in the Tuxpan-Tampico district. Large oil properties of both the Netherlands and Great Britain are located in that region.

The Netherlands kept a cruiser off Tampico for some months guarding the oil properties, but arrangements were made eventually by which the United States government undertook to safeguard them.

Columbus, N. M., March 22.—Four men, were brought to Columbus today from the advance column in Mexico and were relayed to the military hospital at Fort Bliss.

Private F. M. Reynolds, Battery C, Fourth Mountain Artillery, contracted pneumonia on the dash into the southern republic; Horse Shoer William Brooks, Troop M, Seventh Cavalry, was injured in a fall from his horse in the vicinity of Colonia Diaz, and the other two men were set back because of minor afflictions.

Activities of the Seventh Field Hospital, under Lieutenant C. Frick, were continued today in preparation for the cantonment. In addition to the regular equipment, a dentist section is being made ready to accompany the hospital. DOUBT DENIALS OF HERRERA REVOLT

By L. V. B. RUCKER.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

San Antonio, Tex., March 23.—More troops are to be sent forward as rapidly as possible to reinforce the columns of General Pershing in Mexico. If regulars cannot be furnished for this purpose it is expected that the government will call for volunteers.

Carranzista officials today reiterated their denials of reports that General Luis Herrera and 2,000 of his troops had deserted the First Chief and gone over to Villa, but these denials were accepted with considerable reservation. There was a marked feeling of pessimism at Fort Sam Houston.

Major-General Funston admitted that he had been vastly disappointed by the unfortunate incidents that have featured the campaign against Villa. The work of the aero squadron has thus far been a bad failure. The auto-truck service has not fulfilled expectations. The field wireless outfit has been working only spasmodically. The "Buzzer," as the field telegraph is known, has proved faulty.

POORLY EQUIPPED.

The bravery of the American soldier has never been questioned, but the forces in Mexico will be in desperate straits unless their equipment can be improved. General Funston believes that the pursuit of Villa will take the American soldiers more than 200 miles into Mexico.

The general early today was without any confirmation of reports that the American troops had clashed with Villistas eighty miles south of Casas Grandes on Tuesday afternoon. According to advices from Mexican sources two American scouts and eighty-one Villistas were killed in this engagement.

"I have received no confirmation of these reports," said General Funston, "but it is not impossible that the fight occurred. The Mexicans probably would get the report of such an encounter before we could."

General Funston showed no perturbation over the reports that General Luis Ferrera had allied himself with Villa.

"We have taken the proper precautions to checkmate any such move," said the general.

"What precautions have been taken?" he was asked.

"I am not at liberty to say."

DENY HERRERA REVOLT.

Samuel Belden, personal representative of General Carranza at San Antonio, issued the following statement from Andrego Garcia, the Carranza consul at El Paso:

"You are authorized to deny emphatically the story about General Luis Herrera revolting. He is actively pursuing the campaign against Villa and is entirely in accord with the constitutional government. Part of the troops under Colonel Cano had a fight with the bandits led by Villa personally night before last. Results of the battle are not yet known on account of the wires being down, but they have been repaired between Juarez and Madera. I am expecting full particulars of the battle. General Herrera is leading the fight against Villa.

When General Funston was asked why the Fourth Artillery had been sent to Brownsville, Tex., which is across the Rio Grande from the Carranza town of Matamoras, he replied: "Because it was thought a good place for them to go. The climate is pleasant there at this time of the year."

Enforce Alien Laws at El Paso Bridge

El Paso, Tex., March 23.—Federal customs officials here today began rigid enforcement of the immigration laws at the international bridge connecting El Paso with Juarez. Many persons attempting to cross to the United States were declared "undesirables" and turned back into Juarez.

DEBATE IN SENATE ON VOLUNTEERS BILL

Washington, March 23.—The lid was blown off the Mexican situation in the Senate immediately after it convened this afternoon.

Senator Johnson of South Dakota precipitated a warm debate when he read a message from a constituent offering to raise 100 volunteers for Mexican service.

"Why don't he take his 100 warriors to a recruiting office instead of parading his patriotism before the Senate?" declared Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania.

Republican Senators, led by Senators Kenyon of Iowa and Lodge of Massachusetts, made a determined effort to bring before the body Senator Sherman's resolution, authorizing the President to call for 50,000 volunteers.

Vice-President Marshall, however, ruled against them, which led Senator Sherman to declare that he would bring up the resolution as soon as the parliamentary situation would allow.

"We are courting disaster by sending a small force into Mexico," he said.

SUBSTITUTE IS OFFERED.

Later Senator Sherman offered his substitute resolution, which demanded that the President immediately call for not less than 50,000 volunteers for service in Mexico, preference to be given to the organized militia of the State.

Senator Sherman stated that he would substitute it for his joint resolution on yesterday, which was shortracked, and that, inasmuch as it would be a Senate resolution, it would be entitled to immediate consideration.

Many Senate and House leaders today were openly advocating the calling of the National Guard for immediate service along the border.

Open fears were expressed that the present force of regulars was "inviting disaster," and members of the Military Affairs Committee of the two Houses were planning to personally urge the President, on his return here, to take all possible precautionary steps.

It is known that the War Department has already prepared a tentative list of organizations that will be called on for volunteers should the situation in Mexico and along the border not improve.

DEPLORES DISCUSSION.

Senator Stone characterized Senator Johnson's reading of the message from his (Johnson's) constituent as inadvisable.

"The situation in Mexico is, as everyone knows, acute," he said. "Anything that tends to add to the acuteness is better left undone."

Senator Stone pleaded with Sherman not to attempt to bring the resolution before the Senate because of the discussion it surely would provoke.

"It has become alarmingly apparent the last few days that our land forces are pitifully weak and unable to meet even a moderate emergency, much less a crisis in Mexico," said Sherman.

"The provinces of Northern Mexico are uncertain," he continued. "The temper of their people is unreliable. No one knows to whom their sympathies will finally gravitate. If the northern States of Mexico should prove unfriendly, General Pershing and his forces are in danger of finding a hostile country in his rear and no communications with our country. With our present available military force, if a general uprising should occur, we are powerless to deliver our strength at the point needed for his relief.

COURTING DISASTER.

"We are courting disaster. We are trusting to luck. We are sending our men into known danger without safeguarding them against probable fatality, which can be guarded by prompt preparation. We have no assurance at this time that we have not sent our troops into future Mexico to meet their death before we can reach them with reinforcements. It is against this possibility my resolution would provide."

The House today voted overwhelmingly to retain the militia pay feature of the War army bill. It rejected by a viva voce vote the proposed amendment of Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, which would strike out that feature and substitute for it a federal volunteer force of 261,000.

Chairman Hay, arguing against the adoption of the amendment, declared that it was the Garrison "continental army" plan offered to the House in another guise.

A resolution authorizing the government to offer a reward of $50,000 "for the body of Francisco Villa" was introduced by Representative Scott of Pennsylvania. It stipulated that the body of the bandit was to be turned over to the military authorities. The resolution was referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Pershing Faces Fate of Gordon at Khartoum, Senator Sherman Warns

Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois, who introduced a resolution in the Senate authorizing the President to call 50,000 volunteers for service until Villa has been captured or killed, referred to the massacre at Khartoum, one of the chapters of British history in Egypt, and said that massacre might be duplicated in Mexico.

"Shall we wait," he said in his speech in the Senate, "until another Khartoum has done for us in the annals of our history what it did for England in her neglect of Gordon? What will avail to wipe out the stain if we permit it? Will nothing but a massacre waken the dull routine of governmental action?"

Briefly, the story of Khartoum is this: Charles George Gordon, with a record of honorable service in the English campaigns in China, was in 1884 dispatched to Khartoum by British government, with instructions to extricate the Egyptian garrison in the Soudan, who were harassed by the revolt of the Mahdi.

Gordon reached Khartoum in February. The forces of the Mahdi centered their attacks in that direction, and in March a siege of Khartoum began.

For nine months Gordon held out at Khartoum against overwhelming odds, vainly hoping for the arrival of a relief force from England.

The rescue expedition under Lord Wolseley was at length set in motion. It reached Khartoum, scattering the Dervishes, on January 28, 1885, Khartoum had fallen two days before, Gordon and his command were all dead and the Khartoum massacre was history.

TROOPER IN HOSPITAL TELLS OF DODD'S DASH

By International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., March 23.—A vivid story of the drive into Mexico in search of Villa was told by Sergeant W. H. Harrison of Troop M, Thirteenth Cavalry. He was a dispatch rider for Colonel Gubel, chief of staff, and traveled several times up and down the long line of march into Chihuahua.

Propped up in his bed at the Isolation hospital at Fort Bliss, at times barely able to speak from an affection of his vocal cords caused by the alkali dust, the sergeant said:

When we went in, the sun was burning hot, there was not a breath of air stirring, and the dust soon hung over the road like a curtain. It got into our eyes and mouths and we could hardly breathe. Many of the boys put wet handkerchiefs into their hats to keep the sun from burning into their skulls and rods with closed eyes to keep out the dust and glare.

MEN ARE NEARLY BLINDED.

Many of the men were half blinded in a couple of hours. The infantrymen would stumble along, with their eyes shut as much as possible, upon my eyes began to itch around the edges; then they felt as big as camp kettles, and finally everything got dark. I had inhaled a lot of the alkali dust and my throat began to get sore.

After two hours' travel, the faces of the boys looked like painted Indians. They were perspiring freely. The dust would settle on their faces and then the sweat would run down, leaving a little furrow.

As far back as you could see there was nothing but a line of dust. Men could not be distinguished.

When we reached Las Palomas, we went right down through the streets. One regiment of infantry stopped and camped there for the night and all of the next day.

There was not a soul in that whole town. It was weird. We heard a flock of ducks quacking and saw a couple of goats, but not a human being.

TOWN LIKE A GRAVE.

At the next town, Boca Grandes, it was practically the same. We found three peons sitting in the sun. The rest of the place was like a grave. We understand the inhabitants had fled to the hills.

Just outside of Boca Grandes, we found the body of a cowboy who had been killed by Villa on his way to Columbus. He had been tortured and his hands were burned to a crisp.

Finding all the towns deserted, we began to worry, and scouts were sent through the hills and outposts established on the tops of the surrounding hills.

During the marches, the boys stopped ten minutes every hour to rest. When word was given, they just dropped in their tracks right in the road. Most of them would lie flat on their backs, covering their faces with their hats.

No stops for dinner were made. It was one steady hike from morning until we reached the camping place. The infantry was strung out so that they would be a day's march apart. We got no water from Columbus to Boca Grandes, thirty-one miles. The water in my canteen got so hot I could hardly drink it. I poured most of it on my head to stop the terrific headaches I had.

A doughboy (infantryman) has to carry fifty pounds of equipment. All along the line you could see the boys shifting their straps every five minutes.

Just as soon as they sat down, off came their shoes. The gritty road cut those badly, and the blood would sift through making their feet sweat and bleed.

We passed right through the town of Aspia. Next came Colonia Dias, one of the northern Mormon settlements. The houses were of red brick and were well built. Cherry trees were blooming and the alfalfa was knee deep. The gardens were all green. But there was not a human being in the place. We got some water out of an irrigation ditch and that fixed me for it made me ill.

AVERAGE 30 MILES A DAY.

I was shooting back and forth along the line, carrying official dispatches. I got as far south as Ojo Frederico, just north of Casas Grandes.

The cavalry boys certainly did some riding, averaging over thirty miles a day. A lot of the horses went lame and had to be replaced.

Three nights ago I was just turning in at Ascension when they called me and gave me dispatches for Columbus. It was 10 o'clock at night and I started out alone in my automobile. The moon was shining brightly but it felt creepy along the lonely roads. Outside of the camps at Colonia Dias, Boca Grandes and Las Palomas, I didn't see a man the whole distance. When I got to Columbus, I was pretty sick and they sent me here.

There are a lot of the boys pretty sick, but they are afraid they will be sent back if they mention it, so they hang on.

HAD CORNED BEEF.

On the whole, we were fed pretty well. We had hardtack and canned "Willie" — that's corned beef. Some times we got a little bacon. Once I copped a "war baby." That is what soft bread is called.

William Brooks, Troop M, Eleventh Cavalry, and Frank Roberts, an artillerman, arrived from Mexico. Roberts is suffering from pneumonia. Brooks was thrown from his horse and suffered internal injuries. Both men are in a serious condition.

Brooks said said the greatest hardship encountered by the troops was lack of water. He said all the Mexicans met along the line of march looked at the soldiers curiously but offered no insult.

Strauss Hints Suits to Combat Wife's Charges of Triangle in Hearts

Malcolm Strauss, the New York artist, is engaged to paint the portrait of Miss Gladys Snellenburg, daughter of a wealthy Philadelphia family (shown at the top). Follows a separation suit by the beautiful Mrs. Strauss and another against Miss Snellenburg for $100,000 for "alienation of affections." Miss Snellenburg was married to Arthur R. Seligmann of New York recently and is now on her way to Japan.

Most Harvard Men Poor, Says Dean Briggs

That there is more poverty at Harvard than wealth is the declaration made by Dean LeBaron R. Briggs in his annual report to President Lowell.

The dean, in part, says:

With the increase in the tuition fee comes a like increase in the scholarships, so that the most promising students of slender means shall suffer no loss. Nor is there a reasonable ground for fearing that the increased tuition fee will make Harvard a college of exclusiveness and wealth.

That an institution containing so large a number of needy men should still be named as pre-eminently a rich man's college strikes those who know the rank and file of Harvard men as bitterly ironical.

Like every large college, Harvard contains some men who have more money than is good for them, others who with little money live as if they had much.

In the Harvard College that I have known for the last forty years there has been, as there must be now and always, more poverty than wealth.

HOLD FATHER FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Pawtucket, R. I., March 23.—John Nusbaum, a textile worker in a local mill, who killed his three-year-old son in the cellar of his home on Lauder avenue last Monday, and then attempted suicide, was today held for the grand jury by Judge Pack in the district court. He pleaded not guilty. Nusbaum can give no explanation for his act. Alienists state that he is normal in every way. He is a widower. Relatives insist that he has acted strangely for some time.

New York, March 23.—Malcolm Strauss, the artist whose portraits of fair women adorn many magazine covers, is the centre at present of a complicated set of legal actions which may be summarized as follows:

Mrs. Strauss, formerly Katherine McDonald, a chorus girl, has filed a suit for separation against Strauss and has been awarded $20 a week alimony by the New York Supreme Court.

At the alimony hearing an affidavit was submitted by Strauss, in which he said that his wife had started a $100,000 alienation suit against Mrs. Arthur R. Seligman of this city. Mrs. Seligman was formerly Miss Gladys Snellenburg, a Philadelphia society bud. She was married last Thursday to Arthur R. Seligman, the Manhattan banker, and the two are now on a honeymoon voyage to the Far East.

Mr. Strauss, in his affidavit, accused Milton S. Gutterman, a rich New York lawyer, of making false representations about Strauss and Mrs. Seligman to Mrs. Strauss.

ACCUSES GUTTERMAN.

Following up this accusation Strauss has caused Gutterman to be served with the summons and complaint in a suit in which Strauss demands $100,000 damages for alienation of Mrs. Strauss' affections.

Strauss does not accuse Gutterman of stealing Mrs. Strauss' affections to possess them himself, but he accuses Gutterman, as adviser to Mrs. Strauss, of helping her to engage detectives and making false representations to her.

While Strauss' summons and complaint against Gutterman have been served the suit has not been filed yet. The artist is quoted as saying that he would hold off the actual filing as long as possible. This is taken to mean that, if his troubles with Mrs. Strauss can be adjusted, he is willing to forget about Gutterman.

Gutterman has nothing to say about the matter at all. The Seligmans are out of reach on a steamer somewhere on the Pacific Ocean. Mrs. Strauss was last heard from personally in Pittsburgh. Her last communication with her husband was when she telephoned him from there that she would never live with him again.

Malcolm Strauss, followed of the musical stage may recall, is the man who was engaged to Lotto Faust at the time of that popular dancer's death.

MARRIES MODEL.

Five years ago this month Katherine McDonald, a Broadway chorus beauty, applied at Strauss's studio for work as a model. Strauss married her and, until last December, he says, was perfectly happy.

One of the artist's most profitable patrons was Miss Gladys Snellenburg of Philadelphia, daughter of a millionaire merchant. She commissioned him to paint her portrait.

In his affidavit Strauss said his wife objected to the Snellenburg sitting. But the artist needed the money which such a portrait would bring him.

Strauss' version of what followed is outlined in the affidavit, thus:

"At first I promised my wife not to do the portrait, but when I realized that she needed the funds as badly as I did, I went ahead.

"I called on my friend and confidential adviser, Milton Gutterman, a lawyer, and told him of my worry and troubles about Miss Snellenberg's painting. I told him that after a few sittings I would take my wife to Toronto and then to Atlantic City, and that everything would then be smooth again.

"In the meantime, my wife called on Mr. Gutterman and he falsely represented to her that my conduct with Miss Snellenberg had been highly improper. Detectives were procured, and my wife was informed that my conduct with Miss Snellenberg was reprehensible. A few days later I was sued for separation, and Miss Snellenberg was made defendant in a $100,000 alienation suit.

"My love for my wife is as great as it ever was, and I deny that my conduct with Miss Snellenberg was indiscreet.

So far as known there is no suit against Mrs. Seligman on file in this city in behalf of Mrs. Strauss. But Mrs. Seligman's marriage took place only a week ago. It is inferred that any legal steps Mrs. Strauss has taken against Mrs. Seligman have been directed against the defendant under her maiden name.

Mrs. Strauss left her husband's home at No. 3 West Twenty-ninth street last December. Strauss says there was no quarrel at the time, that his wife was merely going to Pittsburgh on an annual visit to friends.

DETECTIVES ON TRAIL.

Strauss declares that it was not until he received a telephone declaration from his wife that she would never live with him again that he suspected anything wrong. He hurried to Pittsburgh, accompanied by his wife's sister, Miss Miriam McDonald. There he learned, he says, that his wife had had detectives on his trail.

So far as his conduct with Mrs. Seligman goes Strauss says that he met her at charity entertainments and with others at his studio, in the course of his professional work. He denies all the allegations made by his wife.

ASK MONEY FOR PHONE INQUIRY

Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the Public Service Commission declared today that the telephone situation in this State demands an investigation in the interest of the people.

He declared to the Committee on Mercantile Affairs of the State Senate that the Legislature has permitted the Public Service Commission to establish a telephone bureau, but has "pussyfooted" on the question by refusing to appropriate money for a thorough investigation.

The main line of the bureau is taken up with the investigation of innumerable complaints against service, he said, and an investigation of rates cannot be made until the Legislature gives $75,000 necessary for this work.

"Under this condition," he said, "the users of telephones in this State are obliged to take the rates the telephone company gives them, whether the rates are right or wrong.

INTERLOCKING COMPANIES.

He said that it is absolutely necessary in the interest of public welfare for the commission to investigate the relationship between the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company and the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, which controls the stock of the former, and its relations with the Western Electric Company, which he declared, has an exclusive monopoly of the instruments used by the New England Company.

Chairman Macleod concluded his appeal for the appropriation for an investigation with this statement:

"The Public Service Commission feels that it would be unfaithful to its public duty if it did not recommend an investigation of the telephone rates and service."

Public Service Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman argued for the investigation. Secretary C. Lane for the United Improvement Society, President John J. Twomey of the South Boston Taxpayers' Association, Francis D. Harman for the Meeting House Hill Association, Louis H. Bonelli for the New England Lands Exchange and a big delegation of legislators recorded their favor of the proposed investigation.

"Let us have quick action on this matter," said Mr. Lane. "Before my friend Dickerman has a chance to point out to some legislators the error of their ways."

The "Dickerman" referred to is Frank Dickerman, legislative agent of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

"INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT."

"Bear in mind what happened last year," said Representative Casey of South Boston. "This matter was passed by the House, but was killed by the invisible government in the State Senate."

"Our position is in the highest degree humiliating," said Chairman Macleod. "Our hands are tied merely because the Legislature hasn't given us enough money to properly investigate the telephone situation. We have a competent force of the bureau and two assistants, but we have an appropriation of only $6,000. The telephone subscribers have gradually come to realize that this bureau can adjust their complaints against the service and at this time the bureau is working day and night adjusting these complaints.

"In other States the investigations have resulted in a decrease in the rates. The commission has no preconceived ideas of what would happen in this State, but we do know that there is a growing feeling of dissatisfaction against accepting the rates as they stand.

"The telephone company has been investigated only once since the system was established in this State. The Public Service Commission would not accept the valuation of the property made at that time by Professor Jacks, its expert. The report has not commended itself to the support of the public at large.

"I want you members of the Legislature to understand that a vote against the appropriation we ask is an adverse vote on the proposition of a general investigation of the telephone rates and service."

Mr. Lane said this matter disappeared in the Senate last year "as mysteriously as other good things have done."

President Toomey said that he has been obliged to resort to a coin-box phone in order to be sure that he "is getting what he pays for."

"The complaints of service are too numerous to be gone into before this committee," he said. "I think it is your duty to let the Public Service Commission go into the whole situation unhampered by any financial restrictions."

'HUGGER' IS CAUGHT BY GIRL

Miss Beatrice L. Sheridan has the thanks of every girl and woman in Somerville for catching the latest "Jack, the Hugger."

Miss Sheridan, who is twenty-one years old, single, fought with and held sixteen-year-old Elmer MacInnis of No. 145 Lowell street, Somerville, after young MacInnis had come up behind her and hugged her as she was approaching her home at No. 10 Pearson avenue, in West Somerville, at 10 o'clock last night.

In Somerville District Court today MacInnis pleaded guilty to assault and battery upon Miss Sheridan and was held in $100 for disposition of his case in the juvenile session of court on Saturday.

MacInnis has been identified by several other girls and women as the young man who hugged and otherwise annoyed them when they were walking unprotected at night. For the past few weeks the Somerville police have been looking for the new "hugger." They believe that Miss Sheridan's capture of MacInnis ends their search.

Miss Sheridan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Sheridan. The police describe her experience with MacInnis as follows:

She was within a few yards of her home, when suddenly someone came up behind her, slapped one of her ears, then embraced her. Instead of trying to break away and escape, Miss Sheridan turned upon her assailant, clutched him firmly and began to scream for help.

The hugger's frantic efforts to escape caused both to trip and fall into the snow, where the captive squirmed and twisted desperately. Miss Sheridan held on until Wayne O'Connell, one of the Sheridan neighbors, heard screams, ran out and made short work of MacInnis.

The prisoner was taken into the Sheridan house and held until the police arrived.

Resignation of Stick Accepted by State Board

Ex-Chief Tarbox Handcuffs Self; Key Miles Away

Biddeford, Me., March 23.—Fred A. Tarbox, former Chief of Police of Newton, Mass., now a resident on the Ford road six miles from here, experienced for the first time how it felt to be handcuffed, incidentally a few of his Boston friends who were visiting him at once had a good laugh.

Someone suggested an exhibition of the souvenirs of the days when he was a policeman. Tarbox brought out a handful of weapons and at he displayed each one told of some incident in connection with it.

Finally Tarbox clasped a pair of handcuffs on his wrists. When he attempted to take them off he could not locate the key. It finally dawned upon him that the key was in another pocket of a coat in his office in Biddeford. He was obliged to go six miles to get the key which liberated him.

MARSH BUILDING AT SPENCER BURNS

Spencer, March 23.—Fire of unknown origin, which caused a damage of nearly $50,000, destroyed the Marsh building here early today. The fire burned more than three hours, during which time the firemen had one of the hardest battles of the year. At one time the high wind threatened to spread the flames to adjoining buildings.

The occupants of the block, which is in the heart of the business section, were all burned out. Among them were Cutler & Cutler, hardware dealers; Dr. Theodosius Rose Berthoume, five and ten cent store, and H. Russell, suit-making shop. Mr. Marsh, owner of the building, lost much personal property.

DALTON PLANT GETS BIG U. S. PAPER JOB

Washington, March 23.—The Treasury Department today awarded a contract for 1,200,000 pounds of distinctive paper to be used in making paper money and securities to the Crane Paper Company of Dalton, Mass., which bid 24½ cents per pound.

DEFENCE IN RICHARDS SUIT ON

Plymouth, March 23.—Dr. Russell A. Hunnewell, plaintiff in the trial of the libel suit rulings suit against the members of the governing board of the Boston Athletic Association, resumed his case before Judge Loring today and Attorney Thomas Hart opened for the defense.

Attorney Hunt declared he would show that Dr. Richards in addition to charging that carpenters' planing fixtures at the B. A. A. had not been accurately set, accused George W. Keaten, one of the governing board of receiving $1,000 to which he had no right, and concluded the address to the jury by saying:

"I am going to try to show that the governing board in expelling Dr. Richards did only its duty, despite the fact that it was a disagreeable one."

Without leaving the defense Max Grosser Clapp of Brookline, member of the B. A. A. since 1893. He told of hearing the ambulance of Dr. Richards from the club and of writing a letter for the doctor. He testified that later Dr. Richards called him on the telephone and said:

TALKED ON PHONE.

"Clapp, this is Dr. Richards. I have been trying to get hold of you for some time to tell you what a low-down son of a gun I think you are."

During cross-examination by Attorney Joseph A. Pew the following letter written by Clapp was read:

May 13, 1914.

Dr. Daniel A. Richards.

I have read your circular and I beg of you to resign before you drive all the decent members out of the club. GILMER CLAPP.

Frank T. Jung, the next witness, told of urging Harold S. Wardwell, president of the governing board, to have some action taken on Dr. Richards' case. He was cross-examined.

TELLS OF FIXTURES.

Herbert S. Potter of Boston, an electrical contractor, testified that he had charge of the wiring during the reconstruction of the club house in 1913, and that the fixtures were over to the engineer. He said the fixtures were good for junk only.

On cross-examination, he said he had endeavored to sell the old electric fixtures to two or three firms, but nobody would offer anything for them.

Herbert A. Green of Allston, for nine years chief engineer at the B. A. A., corroborated the previous witness and said that no junk man refused to buy the fixtures.

ORDER PROBE IN RICH WIDOW'S DEATH

New York, March 23.—An autopsy must be held before the body of Mrs. Emma King, a rich and aged widow, may be buried.

An anonymous telephone message to the coroner's office resulted in revoking the burial permit previously given. The coroner said the complaint told the coroner that the death of Mrs. King, which occurred Tuesday, at her home at No. 103 West Eighteenth street, was surrounded by mysterious and suspicious circumstances.

The coroner immediately ordered a through investigation.

RUSSIANS ADVANCE TWO MILES IN DRIVE

By International News Service.

London, March 23.—Russian troops on the Dvinsk front have advanced from two to four miles, driving the Germans from positions which they had been fortifying ever since the big Teuton drive ended last Summer.

Fighting is going on over the greater part of the 70-mile front, some of the attacks being launched under the eyes of the Czar.

Intense bombardments are being directed against the German lines, the Russians driving from the great stores of ammunition which have been accumulating all Winter.

The most vigorous of the Russian attacks have been directed against the German and Austro-Hungarian positions south of Riga, on the Dvina River, in front of Dvinsk, in Volhynia, on the Stypa River and on the Dniester River near the frontier of Bessarabia.

Vienna reports that Russian artillery is bombarding the Teuton positions along the entire northeast front, and that Russian infantry attacks were repulsed.

AUSTRIAN REPORT.

Following is the text of the official Austrian report:

"Russian artillery is active on the whole of the northeast front. On the Stypa River and in the sector of Kremin infantry detachments which attacked our positions were thrown back. At one place in Galicia one Russian battalion lost three officers and 150 soldiers in dead and 160 in prisoners. Our casualties were few.

"It is believed by Russian military experts that the new offensive of the Russians, which as yet is barely in its initial stage, will have a strong bearing upon the situation in the Balkans and on the Verdun front in the West.

"It is known that some of the German troops which were being withdrawn from Poland were rushed back to the east front at the urgent request of Field Marshal von Hindenberg.

"The Russians have three million men massed on the east front, supported by nearly 10,000 guns of various calibre, some of which were purchased from Japan during the Winter. Military critics predict that midsummer will find the Russians again launching an Austro-German defences in the Carpathians and on the Warsaw front.

"The German official report today says:

"East front—The Russians yesterday showed the utmost aggressiveness and there was great activity throughout the evening and night. They advanced with strong forces against the German positions at the Jakobstadt bridgehead and on both sides of the Mitau-Jakobstadt railway.

FOUR ATTACKS LAUNCHED.

"Four attacks were launched against the German positions north of Widzy.

"On the front northwest of Postavy the number of prisoners taken by us has reached fourteen officers and 339 men. In the sector of Postavy it is believed that the Russians do not intend to make any more general attacks because of the overwhelming losses they have suffered.

"Between the Lakes of Narocz and Wiszniew the enemy advanced several times with renewed force.

"The Russians made great sacrifices of human life and spent much ammunition in these attacks and in other attacks of local character elsewhere.

"The German defence remained unshaken and the Russians were unable to gain any advantage at any point."

WAR SUMMARY

In spite of the beginning of a determined Russian offensive, the situation at Verdun was still the centre of interest today, the Germans pushing forward their forces in the region west of Dead Man's Hill.

Their capture of a portion of Haucourt Hill makes it seem likely that the French will shortly evacuate Bethincourt and Malancourt, falling back to a line running probably from Avocourt northeast to Dead Man's Hill Their forces holding Bethincourt and Malancourt now occupy a vulnerable salient projecting into the German line. Unless counter attacks strengthen their position, they must withdraw.

The Germans are separated from their goal—the railway feeding Verdun—by four to five miles of territory, including the Forest of Hesse, through which they must fight their way to attain their objective. Their bombardment during the past two days, however, has been directed southeast, instead of south, so that their next attack may be aimed toward Esnes, rather than toward Avocourt.

The Russians appear to be developing an attack along their whole front in Galicia and Poland. Their official statement records engagements from Rega to Czernowitz, at widely scattered points. Gains are claimed near Jacobstadt, near Lake Narocz, and further south. The line of battle is so extended, however, that purely local gains are, in themselves, of slight importance for the present. Thus far, the attack is apparently in the "feeling out" stage, and a drive at some one of several strategic points may be expected to develop.

The British report is not exciting; while Italy reports the repulse of numerous Austrian attacks.

Peace talk continues prominent, and there is another speculative outline of the German peace terms—a favorite subject of late. The main points of today's speculation include evacuation of Belgium and France, repayment of war taxes in Belgium, the restoration of Poland, the establishment of Teutonic influence in the Balkans, and the restoration of Germany's colonies, with additions, in Africa.

On the side of the allies, the original determination to "crush Germany and German militarism" appears to be modified. Speculation again asserts that when the British blockade has brought home to the German people the unpleasant side of the war, the allies will consider peace.

All in all, peace before Fall does not seem unlikely.

GERMANS GAIN NEW POINT AT VERDUN

London, March 23.—The German drive against the Verdun-Paris railway, west of Verdun, has made additional gains by the capture of Point d'Appui in the western part of the Avocourt wood.

This news is contained in today's official German statement.

The French official statement, issued earlier, while admitting that the German bombardment continued furiously east of the Meuse, declares that the cannonade west of the Meuse slackened during the night. The French also assert that the Crown Prince did not renew the attack against Petit Mammelon and Haucourt.

French military critics are confident that the effort to outflank the French forces has been checked.

The Germans are no longer sacrificing life with the lavishness which marked the early attacks on the Verdun defences and are depending more on the great guns which have been massed in this sector in unprecedented numbers and which have proved their worth in destructive power against permanent fortifications.

Today's German official report says:

"West front—The German success at Avocourt forest (northwest of Verdun) has been made complete by the occupation of the French positions at Point d'Appui on the mountain ridge west of Haucourt.

"Four hundred and forty prisoners were taken.

The text of today's French communique follows:

"West of the Meuse the bombardment slackened during the night. The enemy did not renew his attacks against Petit Mammelon and Haucourt, at which we hold the redoubt. East of the Meuse the bombardment has continued with violence at many points on our front.

"In the Woevre region no important event has been reported with the exception of an intermittent cannonade.

"West of Pont-a-Mousson, a surprise attack directed against the enemy's trenches in the region of Feys-Haye enable us to take some prisoners.

"The night was quiet on the rest of the front."

OFFICIAL PEACE MOVE IN BERLIN IS LACKING

By AUGUSTUS F. BEACH.

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

Berlin, via The Hague, March 23.—Rumors that peace is imminent, coming principally from the United States, have no foundation as far as Germany is concerned. Responsible officials here deny that there is reason for any such expectation.

Rumors are constantly current in Germany that peace negotiations of a tentative or definite sort are proceeding in Switzerland or some other neutral country, but not in a single authenticated case has investigation proved that there was any ground for these reports.

FEELING IN GERMANY.

It cannot be denied, however, that certain factors in world affairs are continually putting out "feelers" and occasionally peace talk becomes a reality in one or another belligerent parliament.

Germany's last official peace expression made by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg when the Reichstag convened stated that at that time Germany was ready to negotiate for peace, but could not do so on terms of a ruined Germany, which seemed to be the aim of the allies.

There was much criticism of the chancellor at the time and especially afterward when the British press represented Germany as weakening and seeking a settlement of the war. It was resolved officially then that no more official peace talk should emanate from the central powers until the entente had adopted a reasonable attitude and realized the futility of the dream of destroying the German empire.

RESENT ASQUITH VIEW.

In the meantime military preparations have been going forward on the basis of a war to last indefinitely.

Some comment has been occasioned in Germany recently by the speeches in the House of Commons, in which it was suggested that England ought to initiate a peace movement and the reply of Mr. Asquith in which he reiterated the statement that the allies would never sheath the sword until Prussian militarism had been destroyed.

Germans say it is futile to hope for peace so long as England is guided by rhetoric instead of realities.

Japan Renews Sharp Threats Against China

By International News Service.

Tokio, March 23.—A note threatening vigorous measures unless China immediately carries out the demands of Japan will shortly be presented to the Chinese Foreign Office in Pekin.

It is predicted that the decision to maintain a republican form of government in China will have a strong bearing upon the future relations between China and Japan. Although Japan favors a monarchial form of government in China, her allies, England, France and Russia, were against the change.

Torpedo Victim Had Premonition of Death at Sea

A unique will, indicating that E. Booth Jones, an art dealer, had a premonition of death, became known when it was filed in the Probate Court preliminary to the appointment of his administrator.

Jones was an Englishman, but in the Fall of 1914 he decided to come to America, for business purposes.

He had a will drawn with this clause:

"This will is intended to supersede and annul all previous wills in the event of my decease on voyage to or from America, but to become automatically null and void upon my safe return or my wife living to survive me and my return.

FOUR ESCAPE DEATH ON DISABLED CRAFT

Gloucester, March 23.—The twenty-five-foot power boat St. Peter, while beating home through the storm to this port, was disabled by a breakdown of her motor. The captain, who with his three sons made up the crew, rigged a small sail and tried to run to Annisquam River. Instead he landed more than a mile below Knobbs Beach coastguard station. The northeast gale drove the little craft through fifty feet of breakers and landed her so high on the beach that the captain and crew walked ashore.

Report Rumania Plans Attack on the Austrians

By CAMMILLIO CIANFARRA.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, March 23.—It is becoming more and more apparent that Rumania will cast her lot with the allies and predictions are freely made that King Ferdinand will openly espouse the cause of the entente powers in April.

For some time Rumania has been making preparations for war. The financial condition of the government is secure, great stores of grain have been collected, the army is being mobilized and there is being made an accumulation of arms and ammunition.

Press dispatches from Bucharest say that public opinion is very enthusiastic for war. These advices indicate that Rumania, instead of attacking Bulgaria, will strike against Austro-Hungary.

If that comes to pass, the Bulgarians will probably attempt to invade Rumanian territory, as a big Bulgarian force, supported by Germans, has been gathered on the Rumanian frontier.

The Russian offensive and the failure of the Germans to take Verdun have had a strong influence upon the Rumanian government.

PUTS RUSSIAN LOSS AT 2,542,639 MEN

New York, March 23.—The losses of the Russians since the beginning of the war total 2,542,639, according to Boris Schumacher, a Jewish bookbinder and member of the Ford party, who arrived from Petrograd today on the Scandinavian-American liner United States. They are classified as follows:

Killed in battle, 347,913; died from wounds, 195,309; died in hospitals, 274,179. Total losses from death, 817,401. Missing, 954,913; wounded, 732,325. There are 117,955 Jews listed in the casualty column. The Russians have lost 74,335 officers.

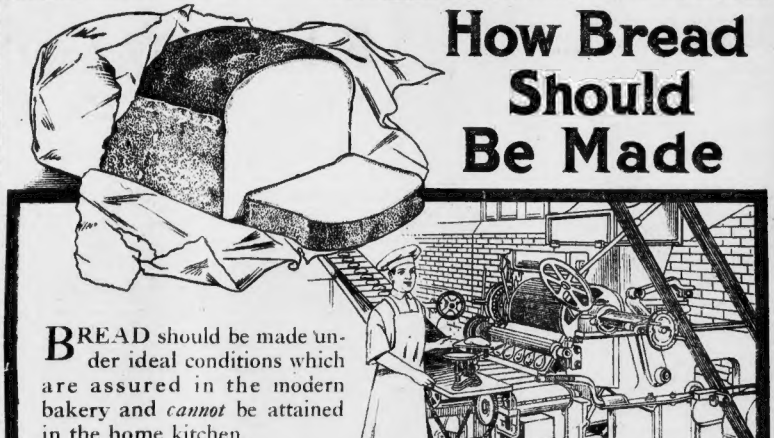
How Bread Should Be Made



BREAD should be made under ideal conditions which are assured in the modern bakery and cannot be attained in the home kitchen.

Bread should be made with flour that is always uniform in quality. But flour varies considerably at different times of the year, according to varying conditions under which it is grown. The housewife has no way of knowing these variations. The baker does—and scientifically blends flours grown in different parts of the country so as to assure uniformly high quality.

Bread should be mixed without any possibility of contamination. Bakers substitute absolutely clean machinery for human hands in mixing and kneading.

Bread-making depends essentially on the fermentation of the yeast—a mysterious action about which the average housewife knows nothing. The baker has made a life study of fermentation, and he alone can control it.

Dividing the Loaves Hygienic care rules every step of bread making in a modern bakery. This picture shows the machine which divides and weighs the dough with absolute cleanliness and accuracy.

In order to do so, he finds it necessary to keep exactly the same temperature and moisture in his mixing and raising rooms summer and winter, and to apply the scientific knowledge acquired only by years of study and experience.

SIX CITIES OF THE SOUTH SUFFER HEAVILY FROM FIRES

By International News Service.

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—Augusta, one of the prettiest cities in the South, today was almost a pile of smoking ruins. Fire, which burned all night and still flares up spasmodically today, swept clear a strip of business houses and residences, two miles long and four blocks wide, entailing a loss estimated at $8,000,000.

Three thousand persons, most of whom lost all their effects as well as their homes, are being cared for by a hastily formed citizens' committee, while three companies of militia are guarding the burned area.

The flames, which originated in the Dyer building elevator shaft from decisive data, swept the heart of the business section, the new fifteen-story Empire Life building being among the first to go. Two newspaper plants, four banks, two telegraph offices and other business establishments were burned. The flames crossed Broad street, swept a row of cotton warehouses in which about $2,000,000 worth of cotton, and ate their way to the residence section.

There was no loss of life, but many persons were slightly injured, among them being two firemen.

2,000 HOMELESS AT NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., March 23.—More than 2,000 of Nashville's citizens are homeless and forced to sleep in houses of their friends, in public buildings and in hotels today. Fire swept a path from three to five blocks wide and thirty blocks long through the best residential section, east of the Cumberland River. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

The fire was checked after thirty-two city blocks, mostly residences, had been destroyed. One negro was killed and six persons seriously injured.

20 HOUSES BURNED AT ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., March 23.—Fire destroyed twenty residences and the Marbut Thornton Lumber Company in the northern section of the city, with a loss estimated today at $150,000.

PARIS, TEXAS, IS FIRE SWEPT.

Paris, Tex., March 23.—Fire raged through the greater part of the residential district, claimed three lives, left 5,000 people homeless and destroyed $4,000,000 worth of property it was estimated today. Provisioning by the trainload and money by the thousands of dollars were rushed today to the relief of the victims.

One thousand dwellings were destroyed. The flames started in a warehouse near the Texas and Pacific railway station. Sparks from an engine were blamed as the cause. Weary firemen were later called on to fight flames in the small town of Detroit, Texas, a few miles away. This entire town was reported threatened with a loss of $100,000.

CHATTANOOGA HARD HIT.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 23.—Four fires in the residential section of the city destroyed property valued at $250,000.

OIL FIELDS SWEPT.

Tulsa, Okla., March 23.—Fire that swept the Cushing oil field has done damage estimated at $1,500,000 and was still burning today, although with diminished intensity. The fire started last night. All the telephone and telegraph wires in the district were burned down.

HART SAYS GERMANS WOULD RULE TURK

Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University says if Germany dictates terms of peace, Turkey will become a dependency of Germany. In speaking of German influence in Turkey, he maintains:

"If the Germans are able to dictate terms of peace at the end of the war they will remain masters of Turkey and will make it practically a dependency; and then Turks will learn what it means to introduce into their empire a foreign power which will never allow them to rule again. If the Germans will not save the Armenians now, they will sooner or later treat the Turks also as people who have no rights which their conquerors will respect."

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try this!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance—the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

AWFUL PAIN FROM RINGWORM ON FACE

Then On Head. Itched Terribly. Very Large, Skin Sore and Inflamed. Had Wet Scales on It.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I felt pimples coming out on my face, then on my head, and I began to scratch them so they itched terribly. The pimples were large and red and after a while they festered and seemed to run together like one great boil and then I knew it was ringworm. The ringworm was very large and the skin was sore and inflamed and had wet scales on it. I felt awful pain and I lost a great deal of sleep.

"I tried a number of remedies. Then my hair began to fall out. A friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got them as soon as possible. They stopped the itching and falling out of my hair and I only used four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment and I was healed." TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be easily made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of cantharine in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a cantharine shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

COURT ORDERS ANNULMENT FOR FERREIRA

The marriage of Joseph Ferreira, prominent in Ward 9 politics and a candidate for the House of Representatives last Fall, to Anna Jesso was annulled by Judge O'Connell in the Divorce Court today on the ground that Ferreira believed that the libelee was a single woman, but that she had a husband living in Nova Scotia at the time of the wedding ceremony.

Ferreira testified:

"I have not lived with the libelee since January 25, 1915, at which time I learned she was married in Nova Scotia and had a child by her first marriage. One night I was alone with the child and I asked her about her father. She mentioned a Daniel Young as being her father.

"'Who's Young?' I asked.

"'He's mama's husband,' responded the child, 'but he's in prison down East for burning property.'

"I learned that the woman with whom I was living married Daniel Young in 1902 and had a child by that marriage. I have learned that Young has joined a Canadian regiment and is now in Europe.

"The libelee told me that she was a single woman a month before our marriage.

"The woman testified:

"I was married to Mr. Ferreira in 1911. He left me when he learned that I had had another husband. I married Ferreira, I did not tell him I had at one time married in Nova Scotia."

MAINE REPUBLICANS PLEDGE REFERENDUM ON SUFFRAGE

Portland, Me., March 23.—The one thing sure and certain about the twelve Maine delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, agreed upon last night at the Falmouth Hotel, to be ratified today at the State convention in City Hall, is that they are not for John W. Weeks for President.

They are not for any favorite son, these Maine delegates but on the day and at the hour of their selection they are "said" to favor the nomination of Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States Supreme Court, with one notable and noteworthy exception.

Harold M. Sewall of Bath, makes no secret of the fact that, whereas four years ago he was a dyed-in-the-wool Taft man, today he holds that the United States needs its biggest man in the White House at Washington, and believes in his heart that the greatest living American is Theodore Roosevelt.

AMERICANISM PLANKS.

The platform to be sent forward today as the voice of Maine Republicans might have been written for the Progressives. It rings with Americanism. The original draft is credited to Editor Arthur G. Staples of the Lewiston Journal.

The platform pledges the Republican party to submit the question of woman suffrage to a referendum of the voters of Maine.

Subject to the very barest possibility of an eleventh-hour change in perhaps one or two instances, but no more than one or two, these will be Maine's twelve voters in the Republican National Convention:

The "big four" or delegates-at-large, Chairman Colonel Fred N. Dow of Portland, Harold M. Sewall of Bath, Charles J. Dunn of Orono, Congressman John A. Peters of Ellsworth.

First Congressional District, Waldo P. Perkins of Cornish and a side partner to represent this county of Cumberland. The Cumberland man may be Henry G. Bryant, Jr., of Cape Elizabeth, but at this writing Mr. Heyer's ambition is threatened by former Mayor Adam Leighton of Portland, A. M. Menlsh of Portland and Thurston A. Burns of Westbrook.

SCORES MEXICAN POLICY.

Second Congressional District, Frank J. Emery of Jay or John R. Bass of Wilton, ex-county attorney Franklin County and L. H. Gay of Newcastle or Dr. Jackson of Lewiston from Lincoln County.

Third Congressional District, John R. Trimble of Calais and Guy P. Gannett of Augusta.

Fourth Congressional District, John H. Houston of Guilford and Patrick Thibodeau of Fort Kent.

United States Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan is on the program for the "keynote" speech, but there was "keynote" a plenty in the Staples platform, which declares for immediate preparation of an army and a navy big enough to "capably enforce the principles of international law" and "regards with abhorrence" the policy of President Wilson in his dealings with Mexico.

These Republicans of Maine condemn the failure of a Democratic administration at Washington to "protect the lives of our citizens and enforce respect for the American flag."

WANT TARIFF CHANGE.

They protest against the Wilson method of handling the Lusitania tragedy and charge the administration with "withdrawing threats hastily made and by so doing forfeiting the respect of other countries."

Maine Republicans in their platform further protest against the abandonment of the Philippines at a time when the Filipinos are incapable of self-government. An entirely novel declaration in this respect is the expression of Maine's hope that when the Filipinos are capable of self-government their islands may be taken in as one of the States of the Union.

The platform, as was to be been expected, is strong on the subject of a protective tariff, asks that the first business following inauguration day may be a complete revision of the present schedules and urges the immediate re-establishment of the old tariff board.

Former Governor William T. Cobb of Rockland is the presiding officer and the following distinguished citizens have already been decided upon as Maine's Republican candidates for the electoral college which really elects a President: George F. Emery of Sanford, E. P. Ricker of Poland Springs, Fred G. Kinsman of Augusta, Beecher Putman of Houlton, Carleton F. Merrill of Skowhegan and Herbert W. Gray of Oldtown.

Colonel Fred Hale's United States Senatorship campaign was opened with a bang which caused terror in the Pernald and Hersey camps. Today they say that Hale has a mighty lead on his rivals.

Carl A. Milliken of Island Falls, Colonel Frederick H. Parkhurst of Bangor, Timothy J. Callahan of Lewiston, Edward C. Wheeler of Brunswick and Alexander C. Hagerthy of Ellsworth are exhibiting their gubernatorial booms.

Candidates for United States Senator and Governor will not be named until the June primaries, but all hands thought today's convention an opportunity too good to miss, and everybody is here with slogan, slgars, cappers, barkers and headquarters.

FOGG AUTO DEATH VERDICTS SET ASIDE

The verdicts of $6,957 and $6,502, awarded Harry Fogg, administrator of the estate of Ebenezer T. Fogg and Fannie M. Fogg, against the New Haven Railroad were set aside by the Supreme Court. Mr. and Mrs. Fogg, while riding in their auto, were instantly killed on May 30, 1913, at a grade crossing in Hull. An opinion written by Judge Carroll declared that, Fogg was familiar with the location where the accident occurred, but did not use due care.

WILSON LEAVES TO VISIT HIS OCCULIST

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully, Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

NEW SNOWFALL CARRIES RECORD TO 74 INCHES

Yesterday's Spring snowstorm, the twenty-sixth of the season, resulted in the breaking of all snowfall records since the Winter of 1873-74, when 94.4 inches of snow fell. Yesterday's snow fall brought the total for this Winter up to 74 inches.

The storm of yesterday—the third day of Spring—was one of the fiercest of the season. Just after midnight it took a flight ocean-ward, leaving in its wake a clear, brisk, typical Winter morning, with the temperature steadily falling. At 10 o'clock, however, it had turned up to 29 degrees.

Clear and warmer weather is promised for tomorrow, according to the weather prophets on top of the Federal building. As a result of the conditions of the streets the society with the long name, which is very desirous as to the welfare of the horses, has issued another appeal to the teamsters, which is as follows:

TO BOSTON TEAMSTERS.

This long, hard Winter, with its repeated storms, has worn out hundreds of our teaming horses. They have fallen away in flesh, and collars and saddles that once fitted are no loose that, in spite of care, sore shoulders and backs are becoming very common. The society recognizes the situation. It does not want to be unjust either to the overworked horse or to the thoroughly discouraged owner. It urges all responsible for the condition of the working horse to resort just now to the temporary expedient of pads for the collar and saddle. Your harness maker will help you by properly fitting pads to save the extra play and overcome the present misfit of the harness that is adding to the discomfort of the horse and causing so many galled places.

GIRL IS SLAIN ON HORSEBACK RIDE

Lexington, Ky., March 23.—Miss Eva Gregory, eighteen years old, daughter of Stephen Gregory, a wealthy farmer of Hardin County, was shot to death by an assassin, who had concealed himself in the underbrush along a lonely road which Miss Gregory was to pass in returning from a horseback ride. There is no clew to the assassin, but bloodhounds will be put on the trail.

upon the body of John E. Peck, millionaire, who died suddenly on March 12, in the apartment of his son-in-law, Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, at No. 425 Riverside drive, New York.

Mr. Peck's death occurred six weeks after that of his wife, who also died at her son-in-law's home.

The autopsy disclosed the presence of sufficient arsenic in the stomach to have killed several men. The heart was in healthy condition and there was no adhesion of any kind. There has been no heart trouble in the Peck family, according to the physician.

Both stomach and intestines showed signs of corrosion. Dr. Schultze discovered positively that the arsenic had been administered before life in the body was extinct.

Mrs. Waite, a bride of six months, is seriously ill at the family home here. She took to her bed last Friday, the day Dr. Waite left for the East. Friends declare she is frequently affected with nausea.

The dead man's will was filed for probate last Friday. Dr. and Mrs. Waite are the chief beneficiaries. They receive the income from $1,000,000 until Mrs. Waite reaches the age of forty, at which time the fortune becomes hers in fee simple.

Dr. Schultze, Francis Xavier Maneuso, of the New York District Attorney's Homicide Bureau, and a stenographer will continue their investigations here on behalf of District Attorney Swann.

Mr. Peck was in business here for half a century. He was the son of Miss Peck, a physician of Newburgh, N. Y. Peck entered the drug business here with his brother. Together they amassed an enormous fortune. Mr. Peck was director in several banks and was at the head of several furniture companies.

Dr. Waite is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Waite of this city. Warren Waite is a traveling salesman. Young Waite is twenty-nine. He was educated in the public schools and at the University of Michigan Dental College. Here he made a brilliant record and was awarded a scholarship in the college of Royal Surgeons, Edinburgh, Scotland.

His work in Edinburgh won him a lucrative appointment in South Africa in the employ of an English syndicate. He was in South Africa several years.

In 1914 he came here for a visit and renewed his acquaintance with Miss Peck, whom he met in Europe, Clara Louise Peck. He went to Palm Beach with Miss Peck and her mother early in 1915.

MRS. ALICE M. ARMSTRONG of Dorchester, who denies the charge that she expressed a desire to dance on her baby's grave.

Testifying in the Probate Court, Alice M. Armstrong declared that her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elsie A. Armstrong, of Dorchester, said that she would never be happy until she had danced on the grave of her baby, and that she refused to nurse it because it reminded her of a rat.

The testimony was brought out in Mrs. Armstrong's petition for separate support from her husband, Clarence G., a bookkeeper. Mrs. Armstrong, who is twenty-four, charged her husband with cruel and abusive treatment and non-support. She asked for the custody of her fifteen-months-old baby boy.

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN; HERE'S GOOD NEWS

The Weather Man today had mercy on this suffering community.

"Fair and warmer tomorrow" is his official forecast.

Spring is at last to have a "look-in." The snow is to begin its disappearance act.

No more snow in sight. No more shovelling, at least for a day or two. There is hope.

Somerville Lady Who Had Stomach Trouble 18 Years Is Cured by Plant Juice.

It is not alone sufficient that the body shall be provided with suitable food, but it is essential that the food must be changed in form by action of the digestive organs before it provides energy for the human body. Without good digestion and assimilation there cannot be good health. Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, assists nature, strengthens the stomach, causing the gastric juices to flow, thereby digesting the food, acts on the liver and kidneys, eliminates waste matter from the blood, which in the cause of rheumatism, and the sufferer is restored to health, which is the heritage of every one.

Local testimonials from gratified users of Plant Juice continue to pour in, proving that this remedy is living up to its reputation. One of the most recent is that of Mrs. James A. Fisher, who resides at No. 21 New Hampshire Avenue, Somerville, and is well-known socially, having lived here for the past 11 years. She states:

"For 18 years I have suffered with stomach trouble, which took the form of indigestion and dyspepsia. My food fermented in my stomach and caused gas, which gave me great pain after eating any solid food; in fact, I could hardly keep anything in my stomach. I was told that I had an acid stomach. I was so nervous I could not sleep at night, had pains all over my body, headaches, dizzy spells, and got so weak I would faint away, and I felt all tired out. I had attacks of rheumatism and trouble with my kidneys. A friend of mine recommended me to try Plant Juice and now, after taking three bottles, it has made a new woman of me and I feel completely cured, as I can now eat any kind of food, have no more aches or pains, sleep well, and will recommend Plant Juice as a grand medicine."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples Are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink, which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

FIND CLUBMAN IN BLOOMERS CASE GUILTY

showed no sign or symptom of any blackmail attempt, and there has been no evidence or indication of such an attempt on the part of herself or others.

"The girl's environment on the stage has made her act somewhat differently from a girl in ordinary life, as, for instance, when she accepted gifts worth some $85, tendered after it was over.

"I find Mr. Alexander guilty."

Roland Sherman, attorney for Miss Allen, made a spirited defence of the girl in his address to the Judge, and denied there had been any attempt at blackmail.

"She is a good girl," he said. "A physician has examined her and I am ready to have him testify if necessary.

"Her two years of experience on the stage have, of course, altered her idea of the proprieties from that of a high school girl. She learned to see a different side of life. Nevertheless, those two years did her no moral harm whatever.

"On the other hand, take the evidence of Mr. Alexander. Does the court believe a married man should go about with women as he has done. He does not even remember where he met one woman in the case, except that he says it was at the auto show three years ago.

COUNSEL ARGUE.

"He admitted he had visited this apartment on several different occasions. It is supposed to be a dressmaking establishment. But witnesses decline to give the court the name of any one of the fifty customers the establishment claims.

"This was not a Tenderloin proposition, an attempt to drag innocent parties here.

"The girl is not the complainant in this case, but the police bring the complaint. She has made no effort at blackmail. There is no blot of anything of that kind in the evidence."

Attorney Clarence Eldridge spoke in behalf of Alexander. He argued that Alexander was a good-hearted man who had been imposed upon, and that the girl had planned to extort money from him.

He said in his argument:

"Your honor, can you believe the story this young woman tells on the stand when she also stated she is only nineteen years old, in the face of the fact that she will be twenty-four at her next birthday, in June?

"This girl, when she came to this house, had a pair of badly worn shoes and her stockings were torn. Mr. Alexander, noticing at once the hole in her stockings, sent out and bought the little border village sprang into public notice through outrages committed there by Mexican desperadoes. Members of the Thirteenth Cavalry gathered at Columbus, New Mexico, to pass a last tribute to their comrades killed in the fighting when Francisco Villa's bandits raided the town. Soon afterwards the Thirteenth swept across the line to kill or capture the bandit chief. These scenes are shown in wonderfully vivid motion pictures from a Staff photographer in Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial No. 23.

Stirring scenes have transpired since the little border village sprang into public notice through outrages committed there by Mexican desperadoes. These scenes are truthfully pictured on the screen, from reading of the funeral service by Captain Lota, through the solemn ceremony with which bodies of the dead are lifted aboard the train by their comrades to be sent to homes of Eastern relatives to the camp life of the soldiers hurriedly called together to avenge the massacre.

Other pictures of unusual interest show the allies at Solonito in a brisk engagement with the Bulgar forces. These pictures, taken by Staff Photographer A. B. Vargas, show the great field guns of the allies pouring a rain of shells on their opponents and scenes inside the trenches where Highlanders gaily puff at cigarettes while they hurl hand grenades towards advancing enemy.

3 OVERCOME BY LEAKING GAS IN REVERE

Two women and one man were found unconscious today in a house at No. 115 Campbell avenue, Revere, suffering from gas poisoning caused by a leaky pipe near the gas meter in the cellar. The victims were:

Mrs. Georgiana Nash, fifty-three years.

Charles E. Nash, twenty-one, her son.

Mrs. Ellen Purtle, sixty-two.

Early today an occupant of the house detected a strong odor of gas. Investigation revealed the condition of the other occupants. The Revere police and Dr. Lund responded. The patient was hastily dispatched with a pulmotor. Dr. Isaac Parke, city physician, responded and worked over the three victims nearly an hour before their recovery.

Mrs. Nash and her son, who live on the first floor, are still in a serious condition. Mrs. Curtis, who lives in the upper part of the house, suffered a relapse, after she was revived.

The police traced the leak to a gas pipe which connects the meter with the main pipe. The gas was turned off and officials notified.

SUSPECT PLOT IN JAIL VAN ESCAPE

Lawrence, March 23.—A reward of $100 was offered by Sheriff Andrew J. Wilson for the apprehension of Henry A. Daniel Leavens or Wilson, who escaped from a van Tuesday while on the way to the state prison to serve sentences.

Attorney-General Herbert A. Bliss said orders to special transit duty will be issued to the militia on Monday.

"There's something wrong. In order that this shall not occur again we must find out where the trouble lies," said Mr. Bliss.

Eight men at large are regarded as the three time-breakers in the plot. Two are said to have armed with revolvers taken from Deputy Sheriffs Tringhast and Calvin, whom they overpowered.

GRADUATION AT RINDGE TONIGHT

BANISHED HIS DESIRE FOR TOBACCO

A Kansas Man Tells of a Simple Home Recipe That Broke Him of Using Tobacco.

Mr. John Miller, living at Waverly, Kas., after using tobacco 25 years, banished his desire for tobacco with a simple recipe which he mixed at home. In a recent statement Mr. Miller said: "I could not stop tobacco of my own accord, so used the following simple recipe almost two years ago and have not touched tobacco since. To 5 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound, and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. As it has no color or smell it can be given secretly in tea, coffee, milk or in food. Any druggist can fill this recipe at very little cost, and it certainly will banish all desire for tobacco."

Capture Escaped Asylum Inmate On Trolley Car

The Worcester State Hospital notified the Boston Elevated early today that Edward Cosgrove of Upham's Corner had escaped from the institution and would probably head for Boston by way of the Worcester-Boston car.

At 9:15, a car arrived at Chestnut Hill with a man aboard answering the description, and the Elevated notified the Brookline police. Officers were sent from Brookline Village to meet the car, but on the way to the village the car met Patrolman Stephen Holleran, and the motorman hailed him.

So Holleran took Cosgrove in charge and escorted him to the station house in town hall, where he admitted his identity. He was held for the Worcester authorities.

HEARST WAR ON THE DRUG EVIL STIRS UP CHORUS OF APPROVAL

The AMERICAN'S crusade against the use of habit-forming drugs is receiving endorsement from business men and ministers all over New England.

Letters are being received daily praising Mr. Hearst for his stand on the liquor and drug evils, and declaring that preparedness for Americans must mean not merely more guns and battleships, but, first of all, a clear-minded, clean-lived, strong-limbed people.

The Rev. Philip Louis Schenk, pastor of the Plymouth Church, Framingham, says:

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I thank you for your letter calling my attention to the position that Mr. Hearst has taken, both with regard to the character of the advertisements admitted to the columns of his newspapers, and with regard to their future editorial policy respecting the drink and drug evils.

I am heartily glad of it. I appreciate the financial sacrifice involved, and for that reason am the more cordially appreciative of the step. Yet I am very sure that this will not be a dead loss to Mr. Hearst—not by any means.

There are some things that simply cannot be bought for money or measured by money standards. Such are the sympathy and gratitude of good citizens and friends of humanity; the consciousness of doing the right thing and consistently serving the good of the nation and of mankind.

SERMONS IN EDITORIALS.

It seems to me that this latest step is simply a natural and logical development of certain wholesome tendencies in the editorial policy of the Hearst papers.

We preachers have by no means been slow to recognize the fact that day after day, and week in and week out, some of the best sermons preached in America, on personal virtues such as industry and thrift, self-control and foresight, patriotism and loyalty, have been the concisely written and clearly printed editorials of these same newspapers.

And these sermons have reached a vast number of people who could be reached so effectively in no other way.

But we preachers know that a man's effectiveness as a power for righteousness and decency depends not only upon what he SAYS, but upon what he IS. A man's influence is often wonderfully enhanced when people come to know that he means what he says, and that it is costing a lot to mean it and to say it.

It was as impossible for the Hearst papers to present the virtues and rewards of temperance on the editorial page and the seductive attractiveness of "booze" in the advertising columns as it was for our country to remain "half slave and half free."

In this step toward an emphatic consistency in espousing clean living and efficiency for the American people, costly though it may be, Mr. Hearst is, I am sure, adding greatly to the power and moral influence of his papers.

PEOPLE MUST DECIDE.

But more than that. Intelligent people are coming to see very clearly that the proper restriction of the sale of alcoholic drinks and habit-forming drugs, by the will of the people, is not an infringement of personal liberty so much as it is a guarantee and a protection of certain inalienable rights of the whole people.

Or, it is a limitation of the harmful activities of a comparative few, in order that the liberties and the welfare of the great body of the people may be the more effectively conserved.

Now, no organ for the educating and shaping of public opinion in the clear recognition of this truth has quite the influence with the great masses of the common people, which the Hearst papers possess, and has the daily newspaper.

And the unique position of the Hearst newspapers with the reading public of this country gives them a unique opportunity and responsibility.

It is your inestimable privilege to lead in helping the people to think soberly on this subject, and then to express themselves adequately in laws that will protect the whole people, but especially the defenceless and voiceless women and children who have always been the heaviest sufferers from the alcohol and drug evils.

"GOD SPEED GOOD WORK."

There never was a time when such a work as this had more importance—or as much—as it has now. "Preparedness" for Americans must mean not merely more guns and battleships, but, first of all, a clear-minded, clean-lived, strong-limbed people.

We must learn to put resolutely away everything that stands in the way of reaching that goal, and to reach out for everything that will help us.

I believe that the Hearst papers have not only the opportunity, but the willingness to lead, whole-heartedly, unselfishly, in realizing that ideal, and most heartily I wish them Godspeed.

Very sincerely yours,
PHILIP LOUIS SCHENK.

The Rev. George E. Lombard, pastor of the North Baptist Church, Brockton, writes:

Editor Boston American:

I was overjoyed to get your proclamation for the emancipation of myriads of hopeless slaves to drugs and alcohol. You have hurled a mighty bomb into the midst of the saloon forces. You have smitten Alcohol in the solar plexus, and already I can see him crippled and limping from the field. And in so doing you have blessed the poor and fed the hungry and wiped away billions of tears, for the stand you have taken is remedial for society.

PLEDGES CO-OPERATION.

You have an enviable influence with the common people, and you can do immense good in waging a warfare in their behalf. It is time the newspapers lined up on the side of righteousness and took their stand unequivocally against every enemy of the flesh and of the spirit.

You will have the best elements of society with you. It will cost you much, but the rewards are worth the sacrifice.

I shall be glad to co-operate with you in this most worthy campaign.

Very earnestly yours,
GEORGE E. LOMBARD.

William F. Dusseault of Lynn writes:

Editor Boston American:

Mr. Hearst in refusing to publish drink and drug evil advertisements confers a great service on the public. The benefit of the influence of the great chain of newspapers and magazines controlled by Mr. Hearst will be of immense value to the cause of public morals and health.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM F. DUSSEAULT.

CLERGY LAUD CRUSADE.

The Rev. William T. Beale, minister of the First Congregational Church of Dedham, says:

I want to express my appreciation of the stand taken by the Boston AMERICAN. It is refreshing to find a publisher accepting and meeting a great responsibility. In reply to the question as to how the campaign against drink and drug evils can be best carried on, I think a newspaper can assist wonderfully in helping to create a public sentiment, without which the best of laws is powerless.

The Rev. A. E. Draper of Lawrence writes:

I do believe that a newspaper should be regarded as more than a purveyor of news, including advertisements, of things good and bad, as in exerting an influence upon public sentiment the newspaper needs own a moral responsibility.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

KATHERINE ANDREWS TO WED

PI ETA CLUB SHOW WILL ATTRACT SOCIETY

MISS KATHERINE ANDREWS.

She will soon become the bride of Milton Livermore Dodge of Newburyport. Her mother is Mrs. D. Allen Andrews of No. 20 Winchester street, Brookline.

Brookline society is eagerly awaiting the announcement of the date on which Miss Katherine Andrews, daughter of Mrs. D. Allen Andrews of No. 20 Winchester street, Brookline, will wed Milton Livermore Dodge, Yale '12, of Newburyport.

Miss Andrews has been a pupil at a Back Bay private school. She is a member of the Brookline High School Sorority. Mr. Dodge is in business with his father in Newburyport.

Miss Andrews has taken a prominent part in social events both in Brookline and Boston.

The wedding of Miss Leavita Kingsbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Kingsbury of No. 40 High street, Waltham, and Frank Lowell, also of Waltham, will take place shortly after Easter.

The engagement was recently announced by Miss Kingsbury's aunt, Mrs. William Robertshi, at her home in Roslindale.

Miss Kingsbury is a member of the younger set of Waltham and is an attractive outdoor girl, prominent in athletics and charitable work, both in her home town and in Boston.

The Pi Eta Club show, "The Lady Decides," will call out Boston society tonight when the famous Harvard society gives its annual performance at Jordan Hall.

The production is a musical comedy, written by James Davenport Seymour of New York, '17, and William Loftus Monro, Jr., of Pittsburgh, '16. The music is by Oscar Arthur Gundlach of Chicago, '17, and the lyrics by Philip Snowden of Cambridge, '16.

Others taking parts are Arthur Norbert Colton of Lynn and Frank Pelham Coolidge of Concord, both seniors; James Shaw Pfaffman of Quincy, John Bright Burnham of Newton Centre and Elmer Morrison Ellsworth of New York, juniors, and William Frederick Williams, Jr., of Bristol, R. I.; Fairfield Eager Raymond of Boston, Arthur Holden Harmon of Bedford Springs and James Cooper of Syracuse, sophomores.

Mrs. Clifford Sawyer gave a bridge tournament at her Dartmouth street home today for the benefit of the Red Cross Society. There were twelve tables and tea was served.

The piano recital given by Miss Claire Forbes in Jordan Hall today was highly appreciated by the large attendance. Miss Forbes is from New Bedford and while studying music is spending the Winter with Miss Massolette of No. 31 Longwood avenue.

Noted in the audience were Mrs. Everett Morse, Mrs. James Garland and Mrs. S. Henry Hooper. Miss Forbes' recital at the home of Mrs. Galen L. Stone in Marion last summer was recalled by many of those present.

Mrs. Francis Henry Wade of Cambridge opened her house to the members of the Governor John F. Andrew Chapter, Daughters of the Union, and after an address by Miss Katherine Loring on the work of the Red Cross tea was served. Mrs. Frank H. Ellison and Mrs. George H. Woodman were at the tea table, and in the absence of the regent, Miss Elizabeth ... Wood, the vice-regent, Mrs. W. D. Tripp, presided.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used.

A half pint should be enough to darken the gray hair, rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp diseases. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

DISAGREEMENT IN WHITAKER WILL CASE

The jury which has heard the evidence in the contest of the will of Albert O. Whitaker, Brighton cattle man, today reported a disagreement.

The case was given to the jury yesterday, and after twelve hours of argument, a sealed verdict was prepared. This was delivered to Judge Hardy today.

Two questions were put to the jury. On the question: 'Was the will made under undue influence of Miss Jennie F. Bratt, Mr. Whitaker's housekeeper and principal beneficiary under the will, or under undue influence of Miss Jane Maw, a nurse?' the jury reported it was unable to agree.

On the question whether Whitaker was of sound mind, the foreman reported the jury found that he was of sound mind.

At that Michael J. Donahue of No. 271 North Beacon street, Brighton, a jurman, arose in his seat and said he disagreed with that verdict.

Judge Hardy asked whether the verdict had been reached by proper vote and signed in proper form, and Donahue admitted he had assented to the verdict, so Judge Hardy accepted it.

The will was contested by Whitaker's brothers, Henry and Charles. Miss Bratt was the chief beneficiary. Whitaker was sixty-nine when he died. The trial had been in progress for several days.

HIGHER FEE MAY CUT HARVARD CLASSES

Dean Charles H. Haskins fears that the attendance at the Harvard Graduate Schools of Arts and Sciences will feel heavily the increase in tuition at Harvard, which goes into effect next Fall. Only the most superior quality of instruction can offset the increase, Dean Haskins says, in his report to President Lowell.

"The Graduate School will have a fee one-third higher than the Law School or the Divinity School," he says. "It will also have a much higher fee than any other American graduate school."

PLAN RELIGIOUS CONVENTION HERE

The Convention Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has just announced that Boston has secured for March, 1917, the convention of the Religious Education Association. The convention will bring to Boston between 1,000 and 5,000 people from all over the country for a four days' session.

PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR BUNKER HILL BOYS

The campaign for raising $125,000 for a new Bunker Hill's Boys' Club has nearly reached its half-way point, without approaching half the sum required.

Three hundred solicitors are working with captains, who report each day at the noon luncheon in Ford Hall.

Frank Mason, the Charlestown real estate broker, who has for many years been associated with the club, asks that business men come to the front with the generous spirit characteristic of Boston and contribute the money so much needed.

"We are making citizens," declared Mr. Mason. "We cannot afford to have our boys ruined by corner loafing and by nights spent in pool rooms and gambling places. We must have a new clubhouse in place of the one now condemned by the Building Department."

At headquarters on the third floor of the Ford Building is a large force of girls and men—clerks, stenographers and cataloguers—taking care of contributions as they come. It is hoped that $50,000 at least may be reported by tonight.

JUDGE LECTURES POOR BOX THIEF

William H. Lewis was held for the Grand Jury in the South Boston court today for robbing the poor box at St. Augustine's Church. Judge Day, in holding him, said:

"This is the most despicable crime a man can commit. It is not in my power to give you the sentence you deserve. I shall hold you for the higher court, and I direct Patrolman Breen who arrested you to look up your record and see if there is not some other charge we can lay against you."

FIRE IN STORES ON WASHINGTON STREET

Fire early today in the stores at No. 2028 and No. 2030 Washington street occupied by John Thurlow, grocer, and Francis H. Dodge, cured damage estimated by the police at $2,500. The fire started in the basement of the Thurlow store, a one-story structure, and spread to the Dodge store in the building adjoining. The cause of the fire is unknown.

SHORT WEIGHT CASES ARE FILED

Judge Bars from School Boy Who Won't Salute Flag

Des Moines, Ia., March 23.—Judge Charles A. Dudley has ruled that a b... who will not salute the Stars and Stripes cannot attend a public school in Des Moines, in deciding that Hubert Eaves, eleven, a negro boy, who has consista tly refused a salute at school exercises, must go either to the State reformatory at Eldora or be placed in a private school by his parents.

The boy refused to salute the flag, because he said he would salute nobody but his God, according to the precepts of his religious creed, the Sanctified Church.

SAY WILSON DID NOT CALL FOR BIGGEST NAVY

Washington, March 23.—According to the Anti-Preparedness Committee President Wilson did not mean literally what he said at St. Louis regarding the need of this country having "incomparably the greatest navy in the world."

In support of this statement the committee today called attention to the editing, which, it declares, the President has given the address in its official form as House Document 502. The new version reads: "There is no other navy in the world that has to cover so great an area of defense as the American navy, and it ought, in my judgment, to be incomparably the most adequate navy in the world."

BEST BABY CANDIDATES TO BE EXAMINED BY EXPERTS

Blanks Will Be Provided on Which Mothers May Note Children's Characteristics.

Perfect babies, for which the AMERICAN is about to institute a search throughout Greater Boston, will be put to physical, mental and character tests by leading baby authorities.

Record cards will be made out in accordance with the approved method established by the American Medical Association.

Not only will measurements be required of the baby's legs, arms, body, head, etc., but weight and height will also be determining factors.

Baby authorities declare that the perfect baby may not be the prettiest, but good looks are, of course, a factor.

The pink flesh must be firm, the weight and height normal, the teeth standard, and the health all it should be.

But, and now let the mothers of Boston take heed, the perfect physical baby may miss winning a prize unless it has the proper education and intelligence.

A fine physical baby with a bad temper, and with habits of disobedience, will not have the same chance as the good baby.

Discipline, then, will be one determining feature.

A discussion of what makes a perfect baby by Dr. Lydia Baker Pierce, resident obstetrician at the Robinson Memorial—the maternity department of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital—may throw light on what physicians think constitutes perfection in infants.

Dr. Pierce sees and knows hundreds of babies, and has helped many into this world. She should know. Here in what she says for the benefit of mothers who are contemplating entering the contest:

CONTEST BIG BENEFIT.

A contest, such as the AMERICAN proposes, should be of lasting benefit to a community, and to the whole country. The greatest value will come from education in regard to health; perfection, of course, means health.

Articles written by leading authorities, and printed in the AMERICAN, will, no doubt, be read and discussed by thousands of mothers and interested friends.

It is all-important that a baby should have a good start in life. Defects at first may never be entirely overcome.

A perfect baby will have doubled his or her weight in five months and tripled it in a year. The normal baby weighs six or seven pounds at birth, but a larger, or smaller, in fact should not be barred from perfection if increase in weight and size keeps pace with the size at birth.

MUST STAND ALL TESTS.

The heaviest baby may not be the most healthy; such a child may be fat and soft, with little power of resistance.

A perfect baby should have six teeth at one year and twelve at twenty months.

A perfect baby should walk at fourteen months and say some words at twenty months, perhaps a few short sentences.

While it might be found that a perfect baby has been bottle fed, the chances are against it; mother's milk is a most important factor for baby perfection.

A baby, to be judged perfect, ought to be mentally alert, and intelligent. Tests will show whether the baby observes quickly, follows moving objects, hears sounds, and distinguishes them.

As babies grow older the baby's use of words will indicate normality or backwardness. No child with a subnormal mind can, of course, receive a medal for perfection.

RECORDS TO BE KEPT.

The baby editor for the AMERICAN is now arranging a blank to be printed each day in the paper with spaces to be filled out with the baby's measurements, characteristics, etc. This blank should be cut out and filled in with greatest of care.

Mothers should not feel discouraged if their babies are not quite up to the mark at the present time—for at least a month and a half will be given before the final judging.

If your little girl is smaller by several ounces than your neighbor's boy, who is the same age, do not be discouraged, for allowances will be made for the fact that girls are always smaller and less robust than are male children.

Scenario Prize Aids 'Better Baby' Plan

The Boston and New England public is awaiting eagerly the result of the Scenario Contest which is being conducted by the AMERICAN, and which is to come to a close at midnight of March 31.

The whole idea of the contest is to help the "Better Baby" movement.

Everybody loves babies, and everybody seems to like the "movies." The idea of adding the "Better Baby" movement by means of a scenario contest struck the popular fancy, as proven by repeated inquiries to the AMERICAN about the progress of this unique competition.

Louis Agassiz Archer, the lynn philanthropist, offered a cash prize of $100 for the best scenario on the subject of better babies.

Making the contest all the more unique is the stipulation that only clergymen may compete. The contestants may be of any residence or denomination, but they must be clergymen.

PASTORS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Pastors are enthusiastic, of course, for the "Better Baby" movement, and it is taken for granted that the contestants will draw as much as they please upon their personal experiences for the material in framing the scenario or scenarios they submit.

Mr. Archer requires as a part of his "Better Baby" campaign, that the scenarios shall relate to this infantile uplift. Hence Rule 2 of the contest, is as follows:

The scenarios written for this contest must deal with the underlying facts by a contrast of babies properly reared with babies who lack proper raising.

For instance, the baby raised by intelligent parents in proper manner can be compared with the baby reared in the absence of those advantages and opportunities, and the care it should have to fit it for its adult years.

Mr. Archer feels that there is an endless variety of plots which may be framed to show how a baby properly reared is better than one improperly brought up.

PLENTY OF EXAMPLES.

There are plenty of examples of contrasts in baby raising in real life. Clergymen, with their close touch with family affairs and their work among all classes of society, have exceptional opportunities to observe babyhood under all sorts of conditions.

Lannin Must Settle It, Bill Out of Tris Case

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 23.—Manager Garrigan and his World's Champions are in the very best possible shape for any body of men to be in after the same number of days spent here in the warm sun and fast field.

There is hardly an ache or pain in the bunch, and, with anything like good weather the balance of the stay in the Spa, the boys will be on their way North fit to give the teams a good run for a getaway in the race for the flag.

The practice has been conducted along safe and sane lines and the boys all feel they have a good chance to get going fast. The pitching staff at this time, looks to be one which will cause plenty of trouble and the catching department is about as strong as any in the American League.

AGNEW PITS IN SNUGLY.

Agnew is a big addition to this end of the team's strength. He handles Shore as if he had been brought up with the tall pitcher, and in general is a "heart" breaker for runners on bases. He has a fine throwing arm and picks them off on the keen in great shape.

Jamerin's damaged ear is giving him some bother. He cannot see very well and the focus is lost and the doctor says this will be all right in a day or so.

Manager Garrigan received word from President Lannin last night that he had received a satisfactory letter from Tris Speaker in which he promised to be in time to report to Hot Springs on time. The wire was somewhat confusing as it inferred that Speaker was to be in Boston on the 25th.

Carrigan says emphatically he will not be the one to get between the owner and the player. He positively refuses to have anything to do with the settlement of Speaker's contract difficulty.

WARM WELCOME AWAITS TRIS.

However, the feeling here is that Mr. Lannin has settled the matter and Tris has agreed to get into the game. He will be a welcome visitor for the boys all feel that with him in the line they still have that chance which comes to a team that is repeating with a championship team.

The game feeling here is so keen that Carrigan has picked Foster to pitch for the Regulars and Leonard on the Yannigans. Both regard him as in good condition and the rivalry is keen.

Lannin's Wire to Bill About Speaker

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 23.—Here's a copy of the telegram President Lannin wired Manager Garrigan, regarding the matter of a visit with Tris Speaker's present standing:

Received satisfactory letter from Speaker, ordered him to report to you. Arrange terms with him is still raging fiercely they were obliged to cancel their trip abroad, which in previous years had been a regular thing.

* * *

George Foster of Boston, a manager of the great little pitcher, is here, having been drawn to the Springs by the rest most as well as the presence of the World's Champion.

* * *

Manager Garrigan watches his players to see they do not pull any funny stunts, such as wearing a catcher's mitt and fooling around in the infield with it.

* * *

There are plenty of catchers to warm up the pitchers, but once in a while a catcher will warm another and then there is a cry for a backstop to take his job. Bill does not intend to have any fingers injured if he can avoid it.

* * *

So far there has been very little if any homesick in the camp. The long walks over the mountains have strengthened the legs of the players, and they all have their wind with them.

* * *

Agnew is working hard, and one can tell from his manner that he is more than determined to be with the World's champions. Jr. Louis has no particular fascination for Ease.

RED SOX NOTES

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 23.—Donie Bush, the Boston Red Sox shortstop, was married at Majestic Park this morning, making his presence felt around the baseball coaching. His words, warbled with the umpire furnished fun for the "fans," who at first could not understand him. Frank's voice is far reaching and somewhat startling in its tone.

Jordan Lambert of Listerine fame, who has been in the Boston Hub for a week, was another visitor at Majestic Park. He and Mrs. Lambert have been in San Antonio, Texas, until recently. Both feel the change and

TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

Public Snapping Up Cheaper Priced Seats—About 2,500 Going at $3 and $5.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Chairman Wenck of the State Athletic Commission has ordered that there must be forty rounds or no boxing on the Willard-Moran program.

This is in accordance with a rule passed recently by the commission.

The $1 and $2 seats were placed on sale this morning. There are about 2,500 of these tickets and the "first come, first served" rule will apply.

"Battling" Levinsky and Charley Weinert will be the principals in the ten-round semi-final. Harry Wills and Sam McVey were to have appeared, but this has been called off because Wills violated his contract by appearing in Brooklyn recently.

Willard is said to have weighed 251 after he concluded operations yesterday. Another pound or two will be worked out today, after which the count will rest. Tom Jones figures that Jess will tip the beam at four pounds during the two days of rest, which will put Moran at 240 and make the ring weighing around 225. Morris is down to 207.

The promoters of the fight announce that the receipts now total $172,000.

The betting odds remain 10 to 7 Willard will win, either by knockout or popular decision, with very little wagering being done.

RING REMARKS.

BOSTON has always been just as well off as the champion boxers as championship baseball teams.

* * *

THIS city leads the country in turnouts for personal attendance, and likewise the only eastern city ever to control the best outfit champion, i. e., the only John L.

* * *

"HONEY" MELLODY was another ring champion. So was George Dixon. As for Ashamber—me glover, Honest Hoston has always been jammed with them.

* * *

* * *

MACK was quick to show Eagan what it meant to forget Terpsichore and take care of himself. Realizing Joe formerly was showered in a windup, unless working on a main time, his trunkhose around New England, Mack picked out the spots that were so numerous and his advertising so well displayed, he finally got his chance.

* * *

SAID chance for Eagan was with Mike Glover at the Hub Theatre night. Even Mack's closest friends advised him to lay off the clever pastels in fact, Eduardo had a bogeyone hard time inducing Mike Murray to put it on.

* * *

TRUTH it is that the Armory crowd ducked under the encounter for a month or longer. And probably wouldn't have booked it at all if some matches it was after had been landed.

* * *

AS matters stand, the club is sure than glad it listened to Mack's pleadings, as THE home of the season turned out. For a dreadful change, the officers weren't forced to dig down and settle after the Tuesday evening entertainment.

* * *

EAGAN was right there with clever all the way. The AMERICANS boxing reporter sittings with Referee Powers on his draw verdict. It was close, sizzling close. Eagan might have had 5 per cent. on Glover; Mike didn't have a thing on Joe.

* * *

YES, they give nose decisions on the race courses, but there the "beaks" is discernible. In the ring it's only a guess when the real close finishes are picked, and the Glover-Eagan finish was so extremely close Powers did right by handing down a draw decision.

* * *

MACK won't let Eagan die on his hands. Pay he is. He can be relied upon keeping Joe as close to sportdom's spotlight as possible.

* * *

JOE O'ROURKE is on deck with a squawk. He has given Jack Dugan, Montreal welter, on with Frankie Mack at the B. M. A. A. tomorrow night. Just for Joe's workout, in order for some spending change, Joe took Lore down to Providence last night and sent him scuttling Frankie Madden of Memphis, Tenn., a newcomer hereabouts.

* * *

REFEREE JACK FINNELL gave Jack Madden the air at the end of the twelve-round mixup. Which causes the O'Rourke squawk. In Joe's opinion, Lore won by the widest of margins.

* * *

TIPS to be Eddie Murphy vs. Frankie Mack, two local welters, at the Hip, next Tuesday night.

* * *

EDDIE M'CONNELL, amateur, feels he held his own while Billy Casey in their 10ff in the 158-pound class at the B. A. A. Monday night and now seeks a special with the champion. It is Eddie's forecast he has a little something on Bill.

Glover Plans to Purchase Home at Sharon

Mike Glover, New England's welterweight champion and the first American boxer to puncture Pal (Kid) Lewie long string of ring triumphs, pocketed some $1,800, stone friends say, for his encounter with Joe Eagan at the Hub Tuesday night, and plans putting the money, together with his additional savings, into a bit of property in Sharon and building a home for himself and his folks.

Glover is now living at that place and believes the air there just right to keep him on edge for the future. Nothing will suit Mike better than to go on in a return bout with Eagan just as soon as the Armory A. A. management says the word.

Glover cannot see where Eagan outscored him and believes Referee Powers gave Joe all the best of it when he rendered a draw verdict. Bout No. 2 between Glover and Eagan is what fight fans, particularly those who tried to go a-scuffing up the line, until one Eddie Mack outlined him to place himself under his guidance, desire.

BIG FOUR TOPPLE RIVALS

"Strangler" Lewis, Zbyszko, Americus and Lemle Victors at All-Star Mat Show.

LAST night's wrestling carnival at Mechanics Building, attended by a great crowd, was productive of some unusually keen sport. "Strangler Ed" Lewis, Wladek Zbyszko, Americus and Karl Lemle were the winners.

Hence, there were no upsets; the four favored picks rewarding their backers.

Hilmer Johnson, the Swede, went on straight falls, scoring in 11 minutes and 5 seconds and 45 seconds, respectively. Johnson made it mighty interesting for Lewis to spots, but on the whole was outclassed, and the Kentuckian was never in any real danger of being flopped.

Americus, who has been idle of late months, had it out with Darre, alleged strong man, and pinned that youth's shoulders to the mat in surrey-up style 7 minutes 45 seconds and 2 minutes 12 seconds.

Frank Leavitt gave Lemle a hard time of it, but Karl was entirely too tricky for the Army champion and went over in straight falls. The wind-up number brought together Zbyszko and Havimpaa, billed as the Finly Pine. Windek never worked better for Boston, and turned the fiery one in 29 minutes 15 seconds and 15 minutes 29 seconds.

Tuesday's entire show pleased and no plans putting on another all-star bill at an early date.

STILL THEY LIVE THROUGH IT.

"You are old, William Hossit," the rooter cried,
"And look like my grandfather did
When he cashed in his checks and conveniently died—
But last March you were only a kid.

"You are aged and creaky and weak-ly and wan,
You are wheezy and wobbly and thin,
So where has your strength and your youthfulness gone,
And where in the world have you been?"

"I have been," said Bill Hossit, "in storm and in flood,
In swamp and in marsh and in murk,
I have wallowed in meadows through inches of mud,
Where mosquitoes and other things lurk.

"I have fallen for every old thing on the card,
From pneumonia down to the pip,
And my blood measures eight million germs to the yard—
I have been on a training trip."

The Desire For Cigars Made by Skilled New England Labor Follows One Everywhere

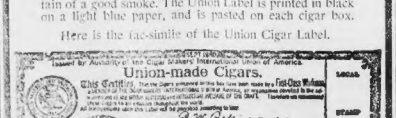
Ask any New England smoker how he feels when he gets outside of New England and cannot get a New England cigar. He cannot find a cigar to take its place. He misses his Union-Made Cigar—and this is the reason. A Union-Made Cigar is the best smoke you can get.

Union-Made cigars are made in clean shops—packed in clean boxes and stored in clean places. The skill of Union workmen in putting together good materials is the secret of a good smoke.

The Union Label on a Cigar Box MEANS CIGARS made right—in clean factories

Don't overlook these things in buying cigars. Ask the clerk to give you a cigar packed in boxes bearing the Union Label, and be sure he does it. Then you are certain of a good smoke. The Union Label is printed in black on a light blue paper, and is pasted on each cigar box.

Here is the fac-similie of the Union Cigar Label.



Braves-Macks in No. 1 All Miami at the Game

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

MIAMI, Fla., March 23.—Bright and early this morning a portion of "Connie" Mack's Athletics' squad dropped off a sleeper here and made tracks for the Grayna, where breakfast was served.

They come for the three-game series with the Braves which starts this afternoon. As the Mayor has declared a half-holiday, the chances are that a "record" throng—for Miami—will witness the first game.

The Braves had their usual morning workout, with President Haughton continuing his strenuous efforts with the boys. Bill James looked more cheerful than he has for some time and declared it an his arm belief his arm will come around into proper shape.

There was not a man on the squad but who was tired when the work was over yesterday. Stallings gave them a severe drill in the forenoon and then the afternoon's game was anything but easy.

BRAVES PLAY SEMINOLES.

The Braves, by virtue of their 7-2 victory, landed the series from Captain Fitz's "Semis." Incidentally, it might be well to mention that the scrappy little outfit hasn't yet lost the grouch which appeared soon after the game started.

Bill Kleut and Charley Rigler were down to arrive around noon and officiate in the series. The local papers have made quite a spread of the fact that regular, sure-enough big league umpires are coming here to work. Both umpires have been at Daytona and eagerly accepted Business Manager Hapgood's offer to run the series.

"Big Ed" Reulbach worked in his first game yesterday, and, though the Braves rapped his slants rather freely, he demonstrated he still possesses the "stuff" and will probably prove a valuable acquisition to the Braves.

Tom Hughes, Elmer Knetzer and Frank Allen were the other pitchers to work.

COMPTON FAILS TO SHINE.

Pete Compton gave rather a weird exhibition of an outfielder playing first base, and, due to his inexperience at the station, the Braves scored more than one of their runs. The game dragged considerably and was by far the least interesting of the series.

President Haughton had as guests at luncheon yesterday, and also at the park for a time, Antonio Scotti, the opera singer; Robert W. Goelet, Fred Inman, the tennis star, and several other notables who came over from West Palm Beach. Among others in attendance was P. E. G. Edden, who flew over in his hydroaeroplane.

LEONARD SIGNS TO BOX WELSH IN N. Y.

New York, March 23.—Benny Leonard and Freddie Welsh will meet in Madison Square Garden on March 31. Because of Leonard's sensational rise, this bout is generally regarded the most important in years among the little men. Welsh is to receive $12,500 and Leonard $8,000. It is announced.

Corbett Calls on Moran

Says Frank Is on Edge

By JAMES J. CORBETT,

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World and First Man to Win Title Under Marquis of Queensberry Rules.

NEW YORK, March 23.—I went up to Frank Moran's training camp, in Westchester, yesterday afternoon, and saw the challenger in his last real workout before he climbs into the ring with Jess Willard.

The big lad from Pittsburgh surely is in excellent physical condition, and, if condition is going to win Saturday night, then Moran will annex the championship.

As I saw Moran go through his stunts, I could not help but think how much he resembled John L. Sullivan was a great up-to-hard fighter. And so is Moran. He could shoot his famous right from any angle. So can Moran. Who could hit the harder? It's about even. Which could hit the quicker? Moran about even.

Outside of a certain hand I think John L. was a better. But I could take the same amount of punishment. John L. left might have been a shade more natural than Moran's, but with a fight that pair would have put up if Frank had been at his best during the days that John L. was champion.

MORAN A LIKEABLE CHAP.

Before I left my story of what I think [illegible] Moran, let me say that I would like to see Frank win the championship. What a champion he would make; every bit as popular as John L. was.

Frank has a wonderful personality and he would be a great hero if he ever did win the crown. He is an intelligent chap; well read, well bred.

When I arrived at the Hawkins' place I ran into "Kid" McCoy. The "Kid's" first remark about Moran was, "Gee, but wouldn't he be a popular champion."

I saw Moran when he fought Coffey the second time, and he was not the [illegible] he was when he fought Fitzsimmons and Jeffries after the second time, and he was not the class for the [illegible] he has retained the right way. And Willie Lewis certainly deserves a lot of credit for Frank's excellent condition.

In taking off the strength that Moran had in his right hand, I don't by any means think that he has put a crimp around his shoulder. It's good hitting strength that he has left.

HIS LAST COFFEY FIGHT.

In his fight with Coffey the last time I did not see him after the middle of the sixth round. From the time I arrived until Moran knocked Coffey out Frank did not use his left hand at all. I was a bit disappointed. Yesterday after [illegible] to learn about this and here is what I found.

[illegible] the very first punch out of his box. I slammed Coffey with a hard left hook as we came to the centre of the ring and I broke the knuckles of the first finger of my hand. That is why you didn't see me use it. But the hand is mended now and watch me use it Saturday night."

Moran is just running over with confidence. He really believes he'll win the championship.

"They'll forget all about the Sullivan-Fitzsimmons and Jeffries after the second time," Frank told me. Now don't that a remark of confidence?

PARTNERS ARE BIG ENOUGH.

I had noticed that many of the critics figured Moran had made a mistake in not selecting bigger men to work with. Well, let me tell you that fellow would stop any boxing partner, no matter his size. So I really do not believe Frank has been handicapped one bit by not working with bigger men.

After Frank finished his workout I went into his dressing room. Some chap pulled out a clipping of Willard's fight with Joe Cox. The story told that Willard had "dogged" it.

"Say, Jim," said Frank, "I am going to whisper that in his ear the first time we go into a clinch."

Moran only boxed three rounds, but he went at top speed in them all. First he took on "Bill" McKinnon; then came Harley Madden and finally Frank Kendall. Moran made Kendall wear a headgear, as he wanted to test leons against him. And he surely did. After it was all over we went up to Frank's room.

GETS PRESENT FROM IRELAND.

"Say, Jim, here's a fine piece of literature a friend in Ireland sent me," he said as he passed me the book.

It was a book dealing with the history of Ireland. As I glanced it over I could not help but think what a man Moran is outside of the ring. No cheap dime novels for him.

I really hope Moran can win the championship. He's such a nice fellow, you just can't help pulling for him. But whether he'll win or not, I cannot say just yet. I've got to think it over a little more. But tomorrow I'm going to compare each man carefully, and then I'll tell you which man I pick to win Saturday night.

On the way back from Hawkins' I talked the fight over with "Kid" McCoy.

"What do you think of it?" I asked him.

"Willard in a walk," was his reply. "Jess ought to outbox Moran a mile, and I'm sure that even if Moran does get in cleanly, he won't do much damage."

Jim Coffey Picks Moran to Relieve Jess of His Crown

By JIM COFFEY.

Irish heavyweight champion, who was knocked out twice by Moran.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Frank Moran has all the qualifications to make a great boxer. He has the endurance, strength and is one of the hardest hitters in the game.

Most people believe that Willard's height and strength will help him defeat Moran, but I do not agree with that. I have always found [illegible] trouble with big men. [illegible] who are small men.

Getting down to [illegible] Moran, I think that I could have defeated Willard. He has had a great deal more experience than the champion.

Both men [illegible] Johnson, but, of course, that's a different affair with the colored champion was for a limited twenty rounds. Johnson may have also been in much better condition when he met Moran than he was when he met Willard in Havana last year. Of course this will prove itself Saturday night.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were still irregular at noon, there having been no change of consequence in New York during the morning. Most of the selling pressure had been against Mexican specialties.

Gains at 12 o'clock included American Zinc ¼, Butte & Superior ⅛, Chino ½, American Can ¼, U. S. Steel ⅛, Colorado Fuel ⅛, Distillers ⅝, Studebaker 1⅛, Maxwell 1, second preferred 1¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, and Union Pacific ⅝. Anaconda was unchanged, as were Car and Foundry, New York Central and Allison.

Opening declines were Inspiration ⅛, Consocort ⅝, Greene-Cananea 1⅛, Mexican Petroleum ⅜, American Smelting I, Southern Pacific ⅛, Reading ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅝, Chesapeake Corp. ⅛, American Locomotive ⅛, Baldwin 1¼, Bethlehem Steel ⅜, Crucible, ⅝, Westinghouse ⅛ and Marine preferred unchanged.

Gains in Boston included American Zinc ⅞, Butte & Superior ⅛, North Butte ¼, New Idria ½, Ventura ⅝ and Woolen preferred ¼.

Among declines were Alaska Gold ⅛, Boston & Maine ⅛, Greene-Cananea 1 and United Shoe ⅝.

DULL AND IRREGULAR.

Stocks were irregular in New York at the opening, with initial trading on the smallest scale so far this week. Traders were disposed to wait for further news from Mexico, and to gauge the way to Europe it was general belief that nothing decisive there can be expected until peace talk is ebbing, but there is wonder as to how much the truce was behind such a sudden outpouring of ammo regards the Mexican situation there is apprehension that the country has taken up large and costly task.

Among the strongest stocks at the opening were Maxwell second preferred, N. Y. Air Brake, American Zinc, Crucible Steel and Studebaker. Among the weakest were Mexican Petroleum and American Smelting. Neither gains nor loss were large. Copper was quiet and railroads quieter. Bears did not resume their attacks upon war industrials, and the class had a narrow price range in early trading.

PRICE CHANGES FRACTIONAL.

At the end of the first half hour the market had showed little alteration, but the tone had slightly improved. A number of issues had recovered losses and were showing fractional gains. There was no sign of increased interest on the part of the public. Butte & Superior, which was inactive, when the market opened, had become strong. U. S. Smelting temporarily certificates were dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange this morning for the first time.

U. S. SMELTING A FEATURE.

The Boston market opened strong but was also dull. U. S. Smelting and American Zinc were about the only active issues during the first ten minutes. Coppers were inactive as a group. There was little movement to industrials.

As regards metals in greater demand for copper was reported, while lead ruled only nearly steady. Business is good both on foreign and domestic account. There is increased demand for spelter for early and later shipment. Tin is steady.

In the London standard warrants market spot copper was off £3, futures were off £6 and electrolytic was unchanged. Spot tin advanced £10, futures 10s and straits 10s. Spot lead was off 17s 6d and futures 15s. Spelter quotations were unchanged.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

According to one estimate, profits of the American Sugar Refining Company for the March quarter will be more than double the 1% per cent distributed on common stock.

Earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the first quarter of 1916 are now estimated at above $50,000,000.

During the fiscal year ending with this month the Westinghouse Electric Company has added to its business, and it is estimated that the production and ordinary orders on its books should enable it to show earnings of from 40 to 70 per cent. on its stock for the year ended by March 31, 1917.

The Pennsylvania road is about to order from 18,000 to 20,000 cars. It is expected also to order 200,000 tons of rails before long.

ROCK ISLAND DECISION IS RENDERED

By BOERSIANER.

Regarded collectively, there was an improvement in the stock market over the moderate betterment of the day before. The painful part of the former rise was that the particular targets of the packers the war issues were the steepest and scored the maximum advances.

Wire communications between Eastern and Western exchanges were defective. Reports of executions were delayed. With a short account, there had doubtless been more active and therefore still higher. As it was the session was accounted satisfactory by the element committed to a forward movement.

* * *

Under the ash there was an uglier feature that I see now with clenched teeth and hell-fire eyes, backing one another's flesh, converting precious living bodies and priceless living souls into nameless heaps of putrescence. Horrible as the lechers—the world—at large—fervently pray for the end of the mutual butchery, they are already and cannot be made of it by lying.

Called to account, all conscience are they in and around the Stock Exchange who invent peace reports for private personal profit, who publish such a falsehood that they may the easier make a "bearish" turn. People—the people—are, the financial interest is ever alert.

* * *

But the community generally is not quite prepared to see bourse canards come into being. The public is more specifically by an element of the press called by way of jest, censorship.

Strictly taken, it is conservatism which—except in times of acute panic—is the real danger. Not mere pedantry and academic stupidity, and is exposed from time to time by just such a performance as that of Saturday afternoon.

Judge Carpenter's decision in the Rock Island Railway litigation is virtually an order to pay the interest due April 1 on the first and refunding bonds. Otherwise stated, the minority holders of the bonds will not be permitted to declare the property insolvent to dispossess other security owners of equities or to take over the road on their own terms.

* * *

In addition to the battles in the courtroom there has been an epistolatory battle between Charles A. Peabody and David R. Forgan, the former is pleading for a complete amnesty for the Rock Island, and the latter for a ransathetic will suffice.

Accepted at its face value, Mr. Peabody's position is extraordinary. Representing one-third of the prior liens, he is interested in getting back his mortgage. There have been rare instances of stockholders objecting to dividends on their stock on the conceivable ground that dividend payments tended to weaken mortgage ultimately, but that a ground mortgage holder should forbid interest payment is quite unique.

* * *

Going deeper, however, it may be argued that absolute ownership of a valuable property at about your own price would not be a bad bargain.

At first Mr. Peabody's attorneys objected to the payment in certificates which would take priority over his client's bonds. They acceded to the payment in certificates subordinate to those bonds. The second objection let the cat out of the bag.

The chances are very many that there will be sufficient cash in hand to meet interest on the prior liens six months hence. There is also considerable money in extensions and betterments, and has therefore strengthened the underlying obligation.

* * *

In addition to the battles in the courtroom there has been an epistolatory battle between Charles A. Peabody and David R. Forgan, the former is pleading for a complete amnesty for the Rock Island, and the latter for a ransathetic will suffice.

Accepted at its face value, Mr. Peabody's position is extraordinary. Representing one-third of the prior liens, he is interested in getting back his mortgage. There have been rare instances of stockholders objecting to dividends on their stock on the conceivable ground that dividend payments tended to weaken mortgage ultimately, but that a ground mortgage holder should forbid interest payment is quite unique.

* * *

Going deeper, however, it may be argued that absolute ownership of a valuable property at about your own price would not be a bad bargain.

At first Mr. Peabody's attorneys objected to the payment in certificates which would take priority over his client's bonds. They acceded to the payment in certificates subordinate to those bonds. The second objection let the cat out of the bag.

The chances are very many that there will be sufficient cash in hand to meet interest on the prior liens six months hence. There is also considerable money in extensions and betterments, and has therefore strengthened the underlying obligation.

"Millions for defence, but not one cent for tribute."—CHARLES C. PINCKNEY

Mr. Edison Agrees with the Hearst Papers

LIKE all really great men, Thomas A. Edison is distinguished by much common sense. Mr. Edison troubles little about theories. He sees FACTS, and their relations one to another.

Recently Mr. Edison gave his views of preparedness to Congress.

Mr. Edison thinks we should have not one West Point and one Annapolis, but a dozen or two.

Mr. Edison thinks we should have not so much huge stores of guns and ammunition, but plenty of machinery always ready to turn out guns and ammunition in endless quantities.

Mr. Edison thinks that every young, able-bodied American should have a few weeks' military training in his youth.

So prepared, Mr. Edison thinks that the thousands of skilled officers could readily whip the millions of partly trained citizens into first-class fighting material, and that the great plants, manned by thousands of workmen, could rapidly supply the weapons and munitions needed by the troops.

These three fundamental and absolutely necessary features of efficient preparation for national defence are the three features which the Hearst newspapers have steadily and insistently urged upon Congress for years, by the express and repeated directions of Mr. Hearst to all his editors.

We have never doubted the practicability or the NECESSITY of these means of preparedness. Nobody could have changed that conviction. But it is a real gratification to see our views adopted and urged by a man so patriotic, so commandingly sensible and so highly qualified to speak with the authority of wonderful achievement as is Thomas A. Edison—the most remarkable man, take him all in all, that this country and this age have produced.

What a nation, what a nation this would be could we have, in these troublous and formative times, a President and a majority in Congress that even approximated the good sense, the clear foresight and the constructive statesmanship of Thomas A. Edison!

A First Class Whiskey Poem

Whoever Wrote It, Wrote It Well

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

MR. A. G. LEWIS sends us the poem that follows and says:

"Enclosed you will find copy of a poem written by a life convict in Joliet, Ill., prison. I thought you might be able to use same in connection with your crusade against whiskey."

Every convict in every prison knows what whiskey is, because of what it has done to him and the men around him.

If a convict wrote the verses printed here, he wrote well and should have had a better life and that life a better ending.

This poem will appear in two million separate newspapers at least, and probably be published in many others—any newspaper is welcome to take it and reprint it from this column.

Read with understanding, these verses might do in the world enough good to offset the crime of the unfortunate convict—whatever that crime may have been.

THE BAR

The saloon is sometimes called a BAR—that's true.
A BAR to heaven, a door to hell;
Whoever named it, named it well.
A BAR to manliness and wealth;
A door to want and broken health.
A BAR to honor, pride and fame;
A door to grief and sin and shame.
A BAR to home, a BAR to prayer;
A door to darkness and despair.
A BAR to honored, useful life;
A door to brawling, senseless strife.
A BAR to all that's true and brave;
A door to every drunkard's grave.
A BAR to joys that home imparts;
A door to tears and aching hearts.
A BAR to heaven, a door to hell,
Whoever named it, named it well
That Is Whiskey.

Punish the Whiskey Seller---

Better Still, STOP WHISKEY SELLING

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

IN Pennsylvania a man was made drunk by his own vice and by the criminal sale of whiskey.

On his way home from the saloon he was killed, his death due to his drunkenness.

The widow sued the man who sold the whiskey to her husband and got $1,000 damages.

The judgment was righteous, needless to say.

If a man sells poison to another, and the other is killed because of the poison, the man who makes the profit on the poison selling should pay—and pay well.

More effective, however, than enabling widows to recover small sums through law suits when their husbands die of drink would be STOPPING THE SALE OF ALCOHOLIC POISONS ENTIRELY.

Nations, States, cities, towns, every citizen with common sense in his head should realize that morphine, cocaine, heroin, whiskey, gin belong in the same class.

A first and a big step in the direction of temperance would be to treat whiskey as we treat opium, treat the whiskey seller as we treat the keeper of an opium den.

And that step will be taken, SOON.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

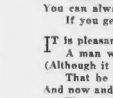
Signed---But Not Read

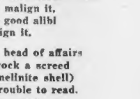
A recent scathing criticism of Congress which was signed by Secretary of War Baker was, he admits, signed but not read by him.

IF you are an officer nursing a grudge
At any one higher in rank,
Don't take pen and ink and set down what you think
Or they'll say you're a nut or a tank.
Just typewrite a letter; put in what you like,
Omitting no wallop or sneer,
Be unsparingly rough with your linguistic stuff
And tell Mr. Baker: "Sign here."

IF you have long nursed a consuming desire
To bawl out a Congress committee
Just speak out your mind every time you're inclined
Without any feeling or pity.
Though Congress gets peevish and raises a row
When colonels or majors malign it,
You can always reply with a good alibi
If you get Mr. Baker to sign it.

IT is pleasant to have at the head of affairs
A man who'll John Hancock a screed
(Although it may well be a mellnite shell)
That he don't take the trouble to read.
And now and again if it raises a roar
The person who thought out the same
Can quietly grin at the tumult and din
While Baker is handed the blame.





Worth Trying, Anyway

An Elizabeth, N. J., man whose whiskers were removed was found to be mad. Why not apply the same test to Secretary Redfield and other Washington statesmen?

Consolation

At the present price of gasoline the man of moderate means may have to lay up his car, but he still can afford to take a grease spot out of his clothes now and then.

'Twas Ever Thus

The railroad president who said he feared reporters more than bayonets evidently had in mind the lines:

"Cold facts are more than bayonets
And simple truth than twelve-inch guns."

Rights

Eight Americans, we learn, are taking part in the fighting at Verdun. If anything happens to any of them must we go to war about it?

On the Importance of Being Born Again

A Homely Recipe for Getting Some of the Joy Out of Living

By Charles E. Henwood

DOES there at times come over you a realization of the utter futility of your life, with the hum-drum and commonplace grimly clouding the brightness and joy you expected life to yield?

You feel the tug of duty here, and the lure of pleasure there; and the endless conflict between those things you want to do, and those you have to do. And as you devote what you consider your best energies to the great task of business, achieving a fair success, or a very indifferent one, or say a very great success in making money, don't you ever sort of shiver at the unreality of it all, a feeling of what, after all, "is the use?"

How the Days Go

You know how the days go—up in the morning with a frown at the clock. A hurried start; breakfast hurried; dabs at conversation, a glance at the papers, and a hurried exit to business, the crowded car, and then at work.

The cares, problems and responsibilities there are often real enough, so that only a man indeed can get through the day with honesty, justice and kindliness—while doing a genuine day's work.

Our seniors try us, our juniors try us more. The work may not be so hard, but it leaves us fatigued and worn when quitting time comes. The balance sheet or the pay envelope don't quite measure up to expectations.

And we mutter at "business" conditions, or at the employer, or at "just my luck."

This, at any rate, is the experience of many, while right alongside of them, at breakfast perchance (some wives are happy, you know), on the crowded car, at shop or office, it may be a senior there, or a junior, a customer or a friend, will appear one who is doing what needs to be done in a spirit of joy and satisfaction, with the eager zest of a healthy child at play.

Just what is it that makes this startling difference in people—that divides them sharply into two classes, one tired, the other eager; one fatigued, the other buoyant; one who always leans, and the other who always lifts?

Well, the biologists tell us—and they know more about the human animal than anyone else — that happiness is a product of rational exercise of function.

Emerson expressed the same thought, but with more of human interest, when he said, "A man is relieved and gay when he has put his heart into his work and done his best."

The Missing Element

It is easy to note the two factions—those who taste of life and find it good, to whom "every common bush is afire with God," who, whatsoever their years, have a youthful spirit.

In the other faction are the dismal, disgruntled, who do their duty perhaps, but not gladly; and who miss absolutely the joy of doing something well.

To determine what makes happiness is not difficult. Its cause and abiding place are within you, and may be shared alike by a millionaire or a day laborer, in perfect equality.

How to experience it? Easily done! Change your mental attitude, and, for a start, take your day's work and do it eagerly.

Not for nothing was it said—"You must be born again."

And you can. Try it!

Pondering on Such Problems Developed the Genius of Archimedes, Galileo, Newton, Edison and Every Man Who Has Advanced Science in Theory and Practice

By Garrett P. Serviss

"WHILE riding a bicycle on a level road I applied the coaster brake and then released it. While using the brake the bicycle lessened speed, and on removing the brake the bicycle seemed to increase speed without further pedalling. What is the explanation?—R. A."

While the bicycle was under the action of the brake its motion was retarded. This retardation affected your body less promptly because it was not rigid like the machine. Consequently the upper part of your body was thrown forward by retaining, at each instant, a part of the forward motion which the bicycle had just lost.

When the brake was released the retardation of the machine ceased and it ran on with the velocity which it had at that moment. But your body, still lagging in its change of motion, felt the effects of the retardation after the bicycle had been freed from them, so that the latter seemed to gain velocity relatively to your body, which continued to lose velocity for an instant longer.

The explanation may perhaps be made clearer by the use of the term "acceleration," which means rate of change of velocity. A moving body which is losing velocity is said to have negative acceleration, and one which is gaining velocity, positive acceleration.

The bicycle when braked had negative acceleration, which was communicated gradually to the body, beginning from the seat upward. When the brake was taken off the bicycle instantly lost the negative acceleration, but this loss, like the previous gain, was only felt gradually by the body.

The same phenomenon is noticed by a person standing in a car to which the brakes are applied and then suddenly released. The car seems to spring ahead at the instant when its retardation ceases.

The level of the Pacific as a whole is not higher than that of the Atlantic, but there are parts of each ocean which are higher, measured from the earth's centre, than other parts of either the same ocean or other oceans. But very little is accurately known about these differences of sea level. Some of them are temporary, or variable, and these are due to tides, winds and ocean currents heaping up the water in certain localities or at certain times.

Other differences of level are permanent, being caused by the attraction of unusually dense portions of the earth's crust or by massive mountains lying close to the sea border. For instance, the geological survey of India disclosed the fact that the sea level at the mouth of the Indus River is 300 feet higher, or farther from the earth's centre of gravity, than it is around the island of Ceylon, and this difference is ascribed to the attraction of the mighty mass of rock that culminates in the Himalaya Mountains.

This draws the sea surface into a rising slope. But it does not affect navigation; ships do not seem to be going up hill when they sail from Ceylon to the northwestern corner of India, because they experience the same effects from the attraction of the mountain mass that the water feels.

In the barometric determination of heights a mean, or average sea level is assumed from which to measure, but the actual level often differs considerably from this calculated mean. It follows that the level of the oceans is not everywhere a uniform spherical, or oblate spheroidal surface, but that it is, so to speak, full of bumps and hollows, although these are infinitesimal in comparison with the size of the earth.

Moreover, they would not be noticeable to those who sail over them if they were far greater than they are, because the changes of slope are gradual and the action of gravity which produces them affects alike everything afloat on that part of the sea.

Since Mars does not shine by its own light, but by reflected sunlight, the cause of its redness must be found in some selective action of the surface or of the atmosphere of the planet upon the white light that reaches it from the sun.

This white light is compounded of a certain number of radiations which separately exhibit distinctive colors, as red, yellow, green. It would be possible for an atmosphere surrounding Mars to absorb all but the reddish rays, leaving only the latter to be reflected, but the probability is that the absorption takes place on the planet's solid surface, which is the same thing as sa, that Mars is composed of materials which reflect only red or red and yellow rays and absorb the others.

Some have assumed that red is the prevailing color of vegetation on Mars, others that its surface is mostly composed of deserts of red sand.

Fevers That Bloom in the Spring

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

PART ONE

IT seems painfully ironic that the approach of the fairest and most charming season of the year, Spring, should be heralded by the fiercest outbreak and widest spread of diseases of any month in the calendar year.

Not only does every country doctor know that his heaviest professional work, his longest rides and his shortest snatches of sleep invariably come just at the period when the Spring thaw has dropped the bottom out of the country roads, but the very Roman name in our calendar of the month which, at Mediterranean latitudes, corresponds to this dread period is February, the month of fevers—the "febrile" month.

And, of course, it has been a classic canon of pathetico-romantic literature that the wan and wasted victims of the Great White Plague struggle through the Winter to fall and fade with the coming of the Spring flowers.

For once the findings of modern science and vital statistics firmly and unmistakably support an ancient popular impression. Not only does the general death rate in almost every city and country of the Temperate Zone mount steadily from its lowest point in July up to its climax in March or early April, but the same steady and fatal rise is found in their curve when we map out the ravages of most of our serious infectious diseases.

This is rather surprising, for while it seems natural and proper enough that there should be an increase in the coughs, colds and consumption group of diseases which are supposed to have to do with chills, exposure and wet feet at this most trying and changeable season of the year, there does not appear, on the surface, any good reason why diseases like scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles and whooping cough, which are pure infections and are not supposed to have anything particular to do with the weather, should also reach their high water mark in the Spring.

But the same cause really underlies this increase in deadliness of all these widely different diseases, though that cause is not the changeable Spring weather.

Trying, undoubtedly, as the erratic weather of the approach of Spring is, with its delicious spells of relaxing warmth and their accompanying "Spring fever," followed by sudden and shivering relapses into Winter with six inches of snow on the ground, it is not the mere violence of its vibrations that plays the chief part in throwing our human harps out of tune.

Variety is the very breath of life to us, we thrive on sudden changes of temperature, and almost anything in the way of weather, short of the vilest, is better than monotony or stagnation.
